AMERICAN DUCHESS RELENTS TO SAVE HER HUSBAND

MARLBOROUGH DIVORCE SUIT IS AVERTED

THE DUCHESS OF MARLBOROUGH AND HER SON THE MARQUIS OF BLANDFORD

PHOTOGRAPH OF HER GRACE THAT IS BEST LIKED BY VANDERBILTS

This picture of the Duchess and the little Marquis was taken when the boy was a baby.

Friends Interfere in Behalf of Duke's Political Career and Alleged Scandal Will Not Become Public—Name of American Beauty in Gossip Concerning Separation.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Only the earnest pleadings of intimate friends to save her husband's political future have induced the Duchess of Marlborough, formerly Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, to abandon her contemplated suit for divorce against the Duke.

The Duke of Marlborough is hopeful of securing a place in the British Cabinet in a future ministry. It was pointed out to his wife that such a scandal as her suit would have aroused would mean his political death. At the solicitation of friends of both parties she has been induced, according to the latest gossip in regard to their unhappy affairs, not to bring suit.

As a compromise, terms of separation without a resort to the courts have been arranged, under which both parents would be allowed to see the children. The troubles of the Duke and his wife have thus been settled temporarily at least.

Had the Duchess brought suit a well known American beauty, whose name has been linked recently with that of a prominent European Prince, it is said, would have been named. It was to prevent this scandal that the Duchess was urged to agree to a private separation.

When the Duchess discovered the alleged unfaithfulness of her husband, she was very angry, according to all reports, and insisted upon bringing immediate suit for divorce. It was with the greatest difficulty that friends who have succeeded in patching up other quarrels between the couple were able to induce the Duchess to abandon her proposed action.

$5,000 VERDICT TO GIRL IN BREACH OF PROMISE

DEDHAM JURY REPORTS AGAINST MOTORMAN SUED BY MISS CALBURN.

DEDHAM, Oct. 26.—A verdict of $5,000 was awarded Miss Grace Colburn, who sued Charles K. Marble, motorman, for $10,000 damages for breach of promise.

The jury returned the verdict this afternoon.

BAIL FOR CONSTABLE WHO KILLED HEN THIEF

POLICE TRY TO FIND IDENTITY OF DEAD MAN AND OF WOMAN COMPANION.

LOWELL, Oct. 26.—Constable Orlando Cummings, who shot and killed a man who was robbing his hen house early to-day, was arrested later on the charge of manslaughter.

Cummings was arraigned in court, pleaded not guilty to the charge and was released upon $2,000 bail. The body of the dead man had not been identified up to early this forenoon.

The constable asserts that he only shot when he believed that his own life was in danger. He declared that the man ran at him with an open knife in his hand and that he shot to save himself, but that he only intended to hit the man in the legs and wound him so that he could trace him by the trail of blood.

The police are to-day trying to identify the dead man, and they are searching for a woman who is believed to have been in the man's company early last evening. The police are following tips that they obtained through an examination of the man's clothes.

Letter in Pocket.

In his clothing was found a letter addressed to Mrs. Lizzie Clark of No. 67 Union street, this city. The letter was dated at Amesbury. A pawn ticket was also found made out to Peter Fleming.

To a report erof the BOSTON AMERICAN Constable Cummings gave a graphic account of the shooting.

Hearing a chicken squawk and having suffered from chicken thieves for some time, Mr. Cummings got up and started for the barn in the dark. He had a revolver, which he cocked and held ready for an emergency. Then this happened, according to his story:

"I saw the man stooping down in one corner of an open shed, where some of my best hens are kept. He did not hear me until I ordered him to come out. Then he grabbed two hens that he had killed and started toward me. It was apparent that he intended to escape with the hens; also to attack me.

"'Stop! Stop where you are. Don't stir,' I ordered in a loud voice.

"He kept coming and did not speak a word. Something glistened in his right hand.

"'Stop! I am a police officer. I place you under arrest.'

Jumped as if to Attack.

"I was at the foot of a small flight of stairs and he had reached the top of these from the other end of the shed without paying any attention to my command. He made a jump for me and I aimed at his feet, hoping to wound him, so that I could trace him.

"The bullet went high and hit him in the right breast. I stepped to one side as I fired. He staggered to the foot of the stairs and then groaned. The hens dropped from his shoulder, and he half fell to the ground. Then he ran down the road, falling occasionally. He fell at last over the bank, and when I reached him he was dead."

MORAN PLEASED BY HIS RECEPTION AT FALL RIVER

District Attorney Moran returned from Fall River to-day and was at his headquarters in the Quincy House at noon. He was in fine condition and was greatly pleased with the reception he received in Fall River.

To-night he will take a rest, and to-morrow he speaks at Tremont Temple under the auspices of the Independence League. Monday he starts out on his closing tour of the campaign and intends to keep every engagement made. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday he will be in the Western part of the State, and the last four days he will be in Boston and the cities and towns in the Metropolitan District.

AVERT STRIKE OF WORKMEN ON NEW SCHOOLS

Question of Wage Rate for Metal Workers Referred to Law Department.

The strike of the men employed on the new Charlestown High School building was called off and a general strike on all the schoolhouses now under construction in Boston was averted by a conference held today between Mayor Fitzgerald, Messrs. Clipston, Logue and Sturgis of the Schoolhouse Commission. President of the Central Labor Unions, Arthur M. Heddell and representatives of Electrical Workers' Local No. 103, Hoisting and Portable Engineers' Union, Carpenters' District Council and the Sheet Metal Workers' Union.

The action was taken pending the decision by the Law Department as to whether or not $3.60 had been established as a "prevailing" rate of wages for sheet metal workers.

The subject under discussion was in relation to the wages paid to sheet metal workers on the Charlestown High School building, the representatives of the unions claiming that the sub-contractor on this work, while paying the prevailing wage to helpers, was employing an unequal proportion of helpers to the number of mechanics employed, there being seven helpers and four journeymen, while the rule is to have them in pairs. Three of the mechanics were receiving less than the prevailing rate, so the labor men claimed.

BLIND COUPLE CELEBRATE.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. E. Harding, who are both blind, celebrated yesterday the sixty-first anniversary of their marriage.

To-morrow Night's Big Independence League Rally

SPEAKERS—John B. Moran, E. Gerry Brown, George Fred Williams, Thomas L. Hisgen.
DOORS OPEN at 7 to ticket-holders. Band concert in Tremont Temple from 7 to 8.

Ticket-holders must come early to get through the crowd, as the doors of Tremont Temple will be c to all comers at 7:45.

No tickets required for admission to Lorimer Hall.

Moran, Brown and Williams will speak at both meetings.

An effort will be made to give everybody who comes to-morrow night, whether he secures admission to the Temple or not, A CHANCE TO SEE AND CHEER THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

WOMAN SHOT DEAD BY YOUTHFUL HUNTERS

Special to the Boston American.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Bridget Kane, a well-known resident of Lanesville, a suburb of Gloucester, was accidentally shot and instantly killed tihs afternoon by two boys who were out gunning.

The boys are Chester Stewart and Don Peterson, and they were looking for partridges in a clump of woods near Mrs. Kane's home, on High street. Mrs. Kane passed through the section in which the boys were hunting, and both saw a movement in the bushes. They thought that the commotion was caused by an animal of some kind and both aimed at the spot and discharged their shotguns at the same time. Mrs. Kane shrieked and fell to the ground. When the boys reached her side she was dead.

Stewart and Peterson were arrested. Mrs. Kane was a widow, fifty-three years old, and is susvived by three children.

4 FISHERMEN DRIFT 3 DAYS IN DORIES; 2 LOST

SURVIVORS TELL THRILLING STORY OF FIGHT FOR LIVES IN FOG OFF NANTUCKET.

The thrilling story of the probable loss of two men and the fight of two others for their lives for three days and nights in a dense fog at sea in a dory, without food, was told to-day at T Wharf, when the fishing schooner Matchless came to anchor with her flag at half mast.

Captain S. H. Hipson of the little vessel thought four of his men had been lost, but he found Foster Crowell and James Sears on the dock. They told of the battle they had made for their lives. The men still missing are Jacob Willie and Douglas Goodwin.

Two Men in Each Dory.

Three dories left the Matchless with two men in each to attend their trawls at noon on Sunday. The boat was then about forty miles southeast of Nantucket. A heavy fog arose, and then men found it impossible to trace their way back. The trio anchored within shouting distance of one another. William Nickerson and Carl Anderson were in the third dory.

In the night a gale blew up. So tempestuous became the sea that Crowell and Sears and Willie and Goodwin were forced to lift anchor. Nickerson and Anderson remained at anchor with great difficulty and the next day found the schooner.

What became of Willie and Goodwin is not known. But because of the loneliness of that section of the sea and the danger of the waters it is believed that they must have perished. Lifting anchor Sunday night, Crowell and Sears rowed until morning, all that day and night, all Tuesday and Tuesday night, and about noon on Wednesday they made Round Shoal Lightship, almost dead.

No Food, Little Water.

They had not had a mouthful to eat since noon on Sunday. They had but one gallon of water for the two men during that period. The sea was so rough during nearly all the time that one man was kept bailing while the other was compelled to remain at the oars. The two men are young and strong, and they were able to keep up their strength until they reached the lightship.

The two men told of their awful experience laconically to-day, as a matter-of-fact happening. They fought for their lives; they won; that was all. The other boys, they feared, were not successful.

I'LL GET GOOD LAWS AND ENFORCE THEM—MORAN

WITH E. GERRY BROWN ROUSES TWO BIG FALL RIVER AUDIENCES TO CHEERS.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 26.—John B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown were given a tremendous welcome last night, the Academy of Music being packed until it could hold no more and a big overflow meeting was held in Anawan Hall. There were Republicans as well as Democrats in the audience, and Mr. Moran was accorded a rousing demonstration when he stepped forward to speak. At the conclusion of his second speech, in Anawan Hall, exhausted, he reeled and fell and companions on the platform caught him and led him to a chair. He was revived by his physicians and taken to the Wilbor House, where he spent the night.

Mr. Moran said in part:

"As I have many times said, I am the candidate of no machine, or combination. I have exercised independence in every act of my life, and intend to do so just so long as there is breath in my physical body.

"Will Enforce Law."

"I am the candidate of three parties, but only as an independent. I stand for the Prohibition platform.

"Law is of little avail unless honestly and impartially enforced. We, therefore, appeal to the people of the State on these issues as great and important questions of the hour, and we urge the voters to cast their ballots as a rebuke to the faithless officials, as a protest against this base legislation, that graft shall cease, and throughout the State the law shall be honestly and fearlessly administered.

"I wrote every article of principle of the Democratic platform in this campaign last July. I believed in it then, and I believe in it still, and after January 1, in an inaugural address, I will advocate the enforcement of its principles. I ask no favors of any newspaper. I am under obligations to no politician, national or local. No man has a collar around my neck. I am simply responsible to the people.

"Consult Your Conscience."

"Last night I asked the papers to print a series of questions stating where I stand on each of these propositions, and asking Governor Guild to tell us where he stands. Let him take his position. If he declines to do so, let us assume that he is against every one of these planks. If he does so, why then he and his party speakers and his party newspapers will be placed in the dilemma of having adopted what was publicly called Moran's 'hodge-podge' platform.

"Curtis Guild is pleading in piteous terms for everybody's ballot. I would scorn to do that. I do not ask favors. The most that any honest American citizen ought to ask is that you vote for no party label, but that you listen to all arguments and vote in accordance with your conscience, for the best interest of your Commonwealth, regardless of who the candidates are."

BROWN BEGINS A CAPE COD TOUR

Special to the Boston American.

HYANNIS, Oct. 26.—E. Gerry Brown and his party of speakers began the auto tour of Cape Cod towns inaugurated by the Independence League yesterday. Mr. Brown made his first short talk at Falmouth to about sixty Republicans.

He revived the conditions out of which the United States came into existence as a nation by the agreements of the representatives of the various little republics over the foundation principles of the natural rights of the individual.

Mr. Brown argued that the function of government can and should be enlarged to any extent that be necessary to protect those rights.

"Regardless of the planks in the platforms of the Democratic party in this and many other States the real intent is to restore to the people the rights that had been taken from them."

The rally at Cotuit was attended by about eighty-five. John A. Coulthurst of Boston spoke to them for about forty minutes on the doings of the different political machines and what it would mean to the State of Massachusetts if they would help to elect J. B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown as Governor and Lieutenant-Governor for 1907.

The rally at Osterville was at 4:22 p. m. The people in this place met the automobile outside the village with a band and about 200 people in line. Mr. Coulthurst spoke from the balcony of the Beacon Club to about 285 people, both Democrats and Republicans and many strong believers in the Independence League.

The party arrived in Hyannis at 6:30 p. m. There was a very enthusiastic meeting of about 375 people. Mr. Coulthurst spoke to them for about an hour and fifteen minutes.

The rally at West Dennis was held at 8:25 p. m. and was made up mostly of Republicans, about seventy-five in number. Mr. Charles Baker of Falmouth, a strong Republican, and who never spoke before in any but a Republican rally, said he was a personal friend of Governor Guild, but believed at the present the Republican machine was the Governor and not Guild, and if the people would vote for John B. Moran they would elect an honest, fearless and God-serving man as Governor of the State of Massachusetts. Mr. Coulthurst made a few remarks in regard to tariff reform.

REPUBLICANS AND DEMOCRATS JOIN WARD 25 LEAGUE

At an enthusiastic meeting, composed equally of Democratic and Republican voters, the organization of the Ward 25 Independence League in Brighton was made permanent last night. The meeting was held at No. 81 Franklin street.

By a unanimous vote the league endorsed the candidacy of John B. Moran for governor and E. Gerry Brown for lieutenant-governor, and each member pledged himself to vote the party ticket at the polls. Despite the fact that a Democratic rally was being held in another part of the ward, the attendance was large, and many of the most prominent citizens of the ward, without regard for former party allegiance, were present.

Permanent officers were elected as follows: President, Daniel H. Sughrue; vice-president, George H. Sherbert; secretary and treasurer, Timothy J. Sullivan. The executive committee includes the officers and John F. Brickley and James Crowley.

In accepting the office of president of the ward league, Mr. Sughrue said:

"The platform of the Independence League is just. It serves the purpose of a great body of citizens, who having borne the yoke of the tyrant until even a long suffering endurance is strained, are aroused and determined to put down bossism, graft and corruption in politics. It's just what the rank and file of the voters of this ward, boss-ridden for thirty years, have been waiting for. How well they appreciate the opportunity, you will see at the polls next month."

It was voted to instruct the president to appoint a committee in each of the seven precincts of the ward to canvass the registered voters, and another meeting of the league will be held in a few days.

LANE AND PETERS MAKE ADDRESSES TO WAGE EARNERS

Daniel W. Lane, Republican, and Andrew J. Peters, Democrat, rival candidates for Congress from the Eleventh District, spoke at a meeting of the Wage Earners' Clubs of the Eleventh Congressional District in the Dudley Street Opera House last evening, and the former defended his labor record during his membership of the State Senate of three years. Although facing a hostile audience, as he truthfully asserted, Mr. Lane was listened to with respectful attention, and although signs of disfavor were manifested when Mr. Lane attempted to explain why he voted against the Overtime Bill, he continued to go through the charges made against him in a circular that has been scattered broadcast, giving his reasons in most cases for having opposed labor and its interests.

"I don't expect to get your votes," said Mr. Lane, "but I want to try to convince you that what I have done, I have done honestly and to the best of my ability."

Andrew J. Peters, the Democratic candidate, was cheered for fully five minutes upon making his appearance on the stage at the close of Mr. Lane's address, and it was some time longer before he could begin his address. He defended his own labor record, and told of the measures that he had fathered and voted for.

The meeting was practically a Peters rally. Mr. Lane spoke at the meeting by invitation of the Wage Earners' Club, and at the conclusion of his speech left the hall. Alderman Fred J. Kneeland challenged Governor Guild to a debate upon the labor record of the gubernatorial candidates. Other speakers were John F. Potts, Dennis Driscoll, president of the State branch, A. F. of L., and Charles Wilkins.

BATES SPEAKS FOR LEAGUE AND MORAN

Opens Campaign in North Attleboro Before Enthusiastic Audience.

HALL CROWDED TO DOORS

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Oct. 26.—With Emerson Hall crowded to the doors, the Hon. Thomas H. Bates of Boston, former Republican State Senator of California, opened the campaign of the Independence League and of District-Attorney John B. Moran here.

Mr. Bates told why he had wheeled from the straight Republican ranks and why John B. Moran should be elected Governor of Massachusetts. Other speakers were John I. Bryant of Fairhaven, candidate for County Commissioner; George A. Sweeney of Attleboro, and John Devlin of North Attleboro, candidates for Representative. Mr. Devlin presided and introduced Mr. Bates. In part he said:

"You are all aware of the strenuous campaign John B. Moran made when he became District Attorney of Suffolk County. He met the opposition of 800 attorneys in the city of Boston, who were favorable to his opponent, Mr. Sughrue, but in spite of all their work he won by a handsome majority. Mr. Moran stood alone in his fight, every newspaper with one exception in the city of Boston being against him. The BOSTON AMERICAN was the only paper that supported and sustained him.

"Mr. Moran will be elected as the next chief executive of Massachusetts. He is accused of not having done his duty while acting as District Attorney, but the fact remains that in every case he did his full duty, but could do no more when the members of the jury did not deem the evidence presented strong enough for a conviction.

"Mr. Moran has no funds to fight his campaign, but is the people's candidate. He says, 'I am not a Democrat, I am not a Republican, I am the people's candidate.'

"The Republican party in the State of Massachusetts has held the reins of power for a long time. If those in power disregard public sentiment and say, 'We don't care for the public, we will do as we see fit,' it is about time for a turn in affairs. The Independence League was formed to put a check on rascality by all parties. It is the duty of all to throw out of public office men who disgrace you. They are all afraid that if Moran is elected Governor he will do things and place some of the political crooks over in Charlestown prison where they belong."

MAYOR WILLARD WILL RUN AGAIN

Mayor Edward E. Willard of Chelsea announced to-day his candidacy for renomination on the Republican ticket. Since the candidacy of Senator John E. Beck was announced two weeks ago there has been much speculation as to what Mayor Willard would do.

"CANDIDATES' NIGHT" RALLY.

"Candidates' Night" will be observed by the Cambridge Central Wage Earners' Club to-night at No. 622 Massachusetts avenue. The following candidates will speak: Andrew J. Rady, candidate for Mayor; Frederick J. MacLeod, candidate for Senator; and Manuel Andrew and William M. Hogan, candidates for Representatives from the First Middlesex District.

HALF HOLIDAY YEAR ROUND.

WAKEFIELD, Oct. 26.—The merchants of this town have voted to continue the Saturday half-holiday throughout the year, declaring their sales count up as large at the end of the week with the half-holiday as without.

W. C. T. U. OPEN BIG CONVENTION AT HARTFORD

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 26.—With an attendance of about 450 delegates from various parts of the country, supplemented by others interested in the cause from all over the world, the thirty-third annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union was begun here to-day and will continue for a week.

The report of the executive committee, which was adopted, provided, among other things, for a W. C. T. U. exhibit at the Jamestown Exposition in 1907.

In her annual address Mrs. Stevens declared that the election in Maine was a victory for prohibition, but that the question was not settled there, and perpetual activity was imperative. She recommended each State body to work for the passage in Congress of the Hepburn-Dolliver-Littlefield interstate liquor bill, argued for the continuance of the anti-canteen law and the three-mile limit law for army posts, and urged the passage of the Humphrey law to compel the revenue collectors to keep a list of special revenue taxpayers. She thought the passage of the denatured alcohol bill would help the temperance cause.

She claimed credit for the W. C. T. U. in sending Mr. Roberts back to Utah, and said the Smoot investigation had furnished proof to justify a movement making polygamy an offence against the United States.

SHOE WORKERS TO TAKE BALLOT FIGHT TO COURT

BROCKTON, Oct. 26.—The question as to the election of Thomas R. Hickey, as president of the Boot and Shoe Workers of America, which has been set aside as illegal by the executive council, will be settled by the court.

The fight against Hickey is being led by the friends of President John F. Tobin of Rochester. Hickey's election was held to be illegal by the council because of alleged fraud in the vote by some of the unions.

At a meeting of the cutters and lasters' unions last evening the suggestion of a new election was strongly condemned.

It is contended by the Hickey wing of the organization that the council had not the authority to say that the election was illegal, while the Tobin adherents assert that the council had the authority to reject the verdict as rendered by the tellers of the election.

Attorneys have been retained by Mr. Hickey and Mr. Murray, who hold that they were rightfully elected president and vice-president of the organization.

O'CONNELL RALLY TO-NIGHT.

Joseph F. O'Connell, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Tenth District, speaks at a rally to-night in Congress Hall, Ward 13.

BARKS LEAVE BOSTON IN RACE OF 3000 MILES

The American bark H. G. Johnson and the Italian bark Oriana started to-day on a 3,000-mile race to Buenos Ayres. With the two crews hurling defiance at each other, each in their native tongue, the two vessels were towed out by Hull and squared their yards to a seven-knot breeze.

Seldom if ever have there been two vessels sailing from this port more evenly matched for a contest of this kind than are these two. The Johnson, Captain Park, is 980 tons burden and carries 785,000 feet of lumber. The Oriana, Captain Pack, is of 987 tons and carries 775,000 feet of lumber. Both barks have practically the same sail spread.

The race has attracted great interest along the water front and news of the outcome is eagerly awaited.

TALK OF FRICK TO SUCCEED CASSATT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania railroad was reported ill again yesterday. That the illness was serious was denied by railroad officials, but it was announced that the trip of inspection, upon which President Cassatt was to start to-day, has been indefinitely postponed. Henry C. Frick is spoken of as the next Pennsylvania president.

O'CONNOR TRIP BIG SUCCESS, HE DECLARES

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—T. P. O'Connor better known as "Tay Pay" both in Great Britain and over here, where he has been for the past two weeks on a mission to get substantial help for the Irish party of which he is one of the leaders in parliament, declared to-day, on the eve of his return, that he had been far more successful than even he had hoped.

Mr. O'Connor was at the Hotel Prince George on Twenty-seventh street, near Fifth avenue. He will sail to-morrow on the Lucania, and his last evening will be spent at the home of Mark Twain, who has invited him to a private dinner to meet a number of friends of the Irish leader and also some noted American literati.

"My mission to the United States," said Mr. O'Connor to-day, "is the most successful I have ever had. I am going away most satisfied. Within the next twelve months I expect that there will be $150,000 contributed for the cause of the Irish party as a result of my two weeks' stay in the United States.

"And I am not going away leaving the work uncared for. I can go away the better satisfied, although regretfully, because I am leaving behind two of my most able helpers—Richard Hazleton and Timothy Kettle, both members of Parliament."

IRISH ENVOYS TO ARRIVE IN BOSTON TODAY

Many Meetings Are Arranged Where Young Members of Parliament Will Speak.

GREAT INTEREST IN VISIT

Great impetus to the movement for Irish home rule is expected at the result of the campaign to raise funds for the cause, that will be conducted in this country by Thomas M. Kettle, M. P., and Richard Hazleton, M. P., the two young and brilliant members of the Irish Parliamentary party, who arrive in Boston to-day. They will continue the work of the Hon. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., the Irish leader, who has been obliged to cut short his visit here in order to attend the Autumn session of Parliament.

A number of meetings have already been arranged in Massachusetts at which the young envoys will be heard. Opportunity will be offered to the supporters of the home rule movement to contribute to the fund of $100,000 pledged at the recent convention of the United Irish League in Philadelphia.

Included already in the schedule are Lawrence, October, 28; Worcester, October 31; Lowell, November 4, and Pittsfield, November 8. Meetings will also be held in Fall River, Holyoke and other Massachusetts cities before the envoys leave for New York and Pennsylvania.

Neither Yet Thirty.

Considerable interest centres around the visit of Messrs. Kettle and Hazleton. It is their first visit to this country since their election as members of the Irish party. Neither is thirty years of age, and both are graduates of Dublin University, where they passed their examinations with high honors within the past three years.

They are splendid types of the young men who in recent years have been flocking to the standard of the Irish party. In this respect they recall the number of brilliant young men who rallied around Parnell a little more than a quarter of a century ago, when he established an independent Irish party.

They were the admiration not only of Europe but of the world, and their names, Redmond, Dillon, Davitt, Sexton, Healy, Leamy, Esmonde, O'Brien, have become household words in the homes of Irishmen the world over.

Young Mr. Kettle and his associate, Mr. Hazelton, are men of the same calibre, brainy and aggressive, highly educated and filled with patriotic fervor.

Won Hot Contests.

Mr. Kettle was elected two weeks ago as a member of Parliament for East Tyrone after one of the most stubborn contests ever fought in that constituency in twenty years. He won over the Unionist candidate by a narrow margin, but sufficient margin to give the Irish party a notable victory.

Mr. Hazleton was also elected at the last general election with the support of many hide-bound Unionists whom he won over to the Irish side, and of Mr. Lindsay Crawford, leader of the Independent Order of Orangemen. He won the fight to represent South Dublin in Parliament by 1,200 votes over his opponent, Rt. Hon. Walter Long, the Tory ex-Chief Secretary for Ireland.

UNITED LABOR

Packs Madison Square and

CHEERS HEARST

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—There was a tremendous gathering of union labor at Madison Square Garden last night to ratify the nomination of William Randolph Hearst by the Democrats and Independence League and the candidate, who made three speeches, one in the garden and two outside, was cheered repeatedly. Preceding the meeting there was a long parade of labor unionists, who were shut out of the garden, as there was not even standing room in the big building when the paraders reached Madison Square.

SEEK FOR BOY LURED TO MAINE

Lured away from his home by bad companions, George D. Campbell, the fifteen year-old son of John A. Campbell of No. 42 Calvin street, Somerville, is believed to be now somewhere in the vicinity of Portland, Me., and his parents have sent out a general alarm for his return. In company with another boy he was seen to board a freight train in Ipswich, bound for Maine, on October 18.

Young Campbell is five feet tall, has dark complexion, dark hair and blue eyes, and wore light striped trousers, blue coat and blue cap.

TOOK LIFE WITH TOY CANNON

BROCKTON, Oct. 26.—Joseph H. Gifford, aged twenty-eight, a wealthy real estate owner, who was treated at a sanatorium a year ago and had brooded over his fear of being sent back there, loaded a toy cannon to the muzzle yesterday, inserted and lighted a paper fuse and held the cannon to his breast until it was discharged. He was killed instantly.

MINNESOTA DOES WONDERS ON TRIAL

In the face of half a gale, with her forward deck continually under water in spite of her 20-foot freeboard, the big 16,000-ton battleship Minnesota maintained an average speed of 18.851 knots yesterday for four hours, exceeding her contract requirement by .851 of a knot.

FUND FOR IRISH CAUSE.

The funds from the entertainment by St. James's branch, United Irish League of America, on the night of November 13, in Corinthian Hall, at No. 1,651 Washington street, will be divided between the Parliamentary party and the Douglas Hyde movement for the preservation of the Gaelic language.

ODD CONDUCT OF STEINERT TOLD IN COURT

Testimony Regarding Dead Man's Sanity Given in Will Contest.

ESTATE LEFT TO BROTHER

In the contest of the will of William Steinert, who died in a Brookline sanitarium last January, leaving the bulk of a fortune of $175,000 to his brother, Alexander Steinert of the Steinert Piano Company, which is being made by Morris Steinert, father of the deceased, Dr. Lee Shoninger, a grandson of the contestant and a beneficiary to the amount of $15,000 under the will, to-day gave testimony against the dead man.

Dr. Shoninger, who graduated from Yale in 1900 and from Harvard Medical School in 1904, told Judge Grant in the Probate Court of Suffolk County how he and his uncle, William, had been friends for years and how he went with him many places. He testified that his uncle, who prior to 1900 had been a model in dress and deportment, began to act queerly and to dress indifferently.

Tells Marriage Proposal.

The doctor said that in 1902, at the Hotel Victoria in Boston, that his uncle had given a little dinner, and later a theatre party. Besides Dr. Shoninger and his uncle, Mrs. Edward Steinert, William's sister-in-law, and a young woman composed the party. Dr. Shoninger said that William Steinert seized his sister-in-law's hand, and squeezing it fervently asked her time and again to marry him. After the theatre, and while on the way home in the carriage the doctor said his uncle again proposed marriage with his sister-in-law.

The witness told of his uncle's having ordered a dinner at the Hotel Brunswick in 1901. They both sat down, but before the dinner was served William Steinert got up and left the hotel, although he had no engagement and had nothing to do after leaving.

Talk of Suicide.

Many strange actions were narrated which took place at Richfield Springs, N. Y., in the Summer of 1901. Teh doctor said his uncle would go out into the golf links and tennis grounds in mid-afternoon, clad in evening dress. He would get up from his bed in the middle of the night and order banquets, and once he insisted upon playing in the bowling alley and was angry when refused.

That same Summer he had threatened to commit suicide and told his nephew that he would have done so but "for his beaming face." One night he had ordered a supper for which he paid $7, but got up without eating and went to a cheap restaurant near by.

Most of the testimony which has so far been adduced by witnesses for the contesting father of the dead man has been in support of his contention that at the time of the making of the disputed will on September 20, 1902, his son was of unsound mind.

Strange Acts at Saratoga.

M. S. Frothingham, master of ceremonies in the ballroom and banquet hall of the United States Hotel at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., told of actions of William Steinert in the hotel in July of 1902. He said that at one time when he, Frothingham, was giving a dress rehearsal in the ballroom and when some two hundred children were practicing for an entertainment that Steinert insisted upon playing the piano. A day or so later he saw Steinert in the main reception room at 2 o'clock in the afternoon garbed in full dress. He was swinging a cane and posing.

Frothingham described the famous dinner at the hotel given by Steinert the same Summer. He told about his declaring that he was to have many of New York's "400" present at the banquet in honor of Hattie Scholer, the twelve-year-old girl singer, whom he had wanted to marry, so it was testified. Newspaper men and hotel employes were pressed into service to face the thirty plates on that occasion. Chicken salad, beer, wines of all kinds and sandwiches were served, said Frothingham.

RISKS JOB TO TELL OF OWN DRAPER SERFDOM

HEAD OF MILFORD C. L. U. VIVIDLY PAINTS LIFE IN HOPE (LESS) DALE.

MILFORD, Oct. 26.—Patrick C. J. Dacey of No. 51 East Main street, president of the Central Labor Union and of the Quarry Workers' Union of Milford, denounces the Drapers' attitude toward labor unions and the laboring poor, indorses Moran and Brown, says the BOSTON AMERICAN has correctly portrayed the situation there, and, though he may lose his employment as a result, because the Drapers' fingers are intertwined in the stone-cutting industry, is not afraid to talk, and tells of his experiences working in he Hopedale mills in other years.

Patrick C. J. Dacey is a strong figure in the Milford labor situation. He will drop anything in which engaged to fly to the front and champion a labor cause, whether it be a winning or losing fight, with hard-headed wisdom and blunt skill. This is what he said yesterday to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter concerning the Drapers:

By Patrick C. J. Dacey.

THE methods employed by the Drapers toward organized labor and toward those who work for them are un-American and an echo of the ancient feudal system of one-man power, a few well-paid subordinates and the grinding of the common people.

I could give a thousand facts and reasons in support of this claim, but the BOSTON AMERICAN is already doing that, and I admire the BOSTON AMERICAN for its stand. I am a Hearst man in principles, and unalterably for Moran and Brown for the labor principles they represent.

And I am against the Drapers because they are the conscienceless opponents of the workingman.

The Drapers are violators of the constitutional rights of their employes and the towns they dominate, and therefore they are un-American.

Clothes Taken Away.

Having worked in the Draper Mills I know that what has been told to the BOSTON AMERICAN is true. A common man loses his individuality as quickly as he enters there. He is next to a prisoner, a small part of the tremendous machine, to be ordered hither and thither, treated according to the sweet will of his superiors and deprived of the inherent right to think, and he is paid and discharged with a cold-blooded disregard of the milk of human kindness and the touch of nature that should make all men kin.

Well do I recall the first day I went to work. A subaltern, acting upon the custom, seized my coat and dinner pail to lock it up in the iron enclosure, so I could not waste a minute in biting a doughnut or leave the room without his knowledge.

"Here, where are you going with those things?" I called after him, and he told me.

"They belong to me, and not to the Drapers," I shouted angrily. "Drop them."

Preferred Cheap Men.

My job was worth $1.35 a day, but I kicked until I got $1.50. I observed that they worked two laborers at $1.25 a day each on a job that could have been performed by one skilled man who would have wanted perhaps $3 a day, and thus were able to point out that the mills were supporting a great number of families.

It was against their principle to allow anybody to earn more than, say $2 a day, preferring to let him go and get two very cheap men. When I got through I had $5 due me, and had to wait four hours on my own time and answer categorical questions to obtain it. They asked if I stopped at the company boarding house. This has seventy-five rooms, and it is said that it pays the Drapers $1 a week per boarder, in return for which the Drapers take out his board bill on pay days and personally settle with the managers of the hotel. They asked, too, if I owed the company for ice, coal, wood, etc.

WOMAN'S DEATH SUICIDE CASE

BRUNSWICK, Me., Oct. 26.—Dr. W. C. Reed to-day identified the body found last night in Merrymeeting Bay as that of his sister, Mrs. Lucy A. Carleton, of Southbridge, Mass. The identification is positive.

Suicide by drowning is the cause of death found by Coroner William E. Gordon, who has decided that an inquest will be unnecessary.

Burial will be at Woolwich, Sunday.

LIPTON HOPES TO TRY FOR CUP

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Sir Thomas Lipton, at a dinner last night, given in his honor by the Brooklyn Yacht Club, made the first formal announcement that he hoped he might be priviliged to challenge for the international cup in 1907, 1908, or 1909. He expressed the hope that in the next race the new rule of measurement, adopted by the yacht clubs of this country would apply.

LEAGUE HIRES EXTRA HALLS FOR BIG RALLY

Moran and Brown Will Speak at Overflow Meetings Saturday Night at Tremont Temple.

BIGGEST EVER IN STATE

The monster rally of the Independence League in Tremont Temple to-morrow evening will surpass in attendance and enthusiasm any rally ever held in Massachusetts for State candidates. From the minute that it was announced that John B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown, Independence League and Democratic candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor, would be present, a steady stream of applications has besieged the State headquarters of the League, requesting tickets. Before the State headquarters in the Winthrop Building closed at 9 o'clock last night every ticket had been disposed of and hundreds of applications had to be refused.

In order that the record-breaking crowd which is certain to attend may have an opportunity to hear the candidates discuss the issues of the campaign, the executive committee of the Independence League has engaged Lorimer Hall, on the floor below the great auditorium in Tremont Temple, and an overflow meeting will be held there. Lorimer Hall will accommodate about 1,000 people in addition to the 3,500 which may find seats and standing room in the larger place. The two candidates and Mr. Williams will speak in the overflow meeting as well as in the large hall.

All persons, whether ticket holders or not, are urged at the headquarters of the League to reach Tremont Temple at as early an hour as possible. The doors will be thrown open to the public at 7:45, and after that hour those holding tickets will have to take their chances with the rest in securing a place.

Admission to Lorimer Hall will not be by ticket, and those who come without the necessary pasteboards will have an equal chance with those who do have them to hear the speakers there. If it becomes necessary, a further overflow meeting will be held, so that no person need stay away for fear the crowd will be so great that one cannot, in one place or another, hear the orators. Democrats, Republicans, Prohibitionists, Socialists — every political creed and shade of belief—will be represented in the great auditorium.

One of the first callers for tickets at the League headquarters yesterday was W. H. H. Emmons, former chairman of the police commission, and a well-known Republican, while a little behind him came Chairman John H. Nichols of the Prohibitionist State committee.

Invitations to occupy seats upon the platform have been sent to many of the most prominent men in the State. Among the acceptances already received are those of all the candidates of the Independence League for State offices, and it is expected that Judge Charles C. Paine of Hyannis, candidate for Secretary of State; Thomas L. Hisgen of West Springfield, candidate for State Auditor, and Hon. George M. Harrigan of Lowell, candidate for State Treasurer, will be among the speakers at one or another of the meetings.

The First Corps Cadets Band, one of the best musical organizations in the State, with twenty-five pieces, will begin a concert of popular selections sharp at seven o'clock and will continue this concert practically without intermission until the speaking begins at eight.

MISTAKE GAVE PRIEST $60,000

Rev. James H. O'Neil of Revere returned home from a business visit to New York to-day with his own travelling bag, after it had been exchanged by a friend, who was taking it to his home, for one containing $60,000 in bonds, the property of the American Glue Company. While in New York Father O'Neil was a guest of W. J. Kingston. At the depot Mr. Kingston took Father O'Neil's bag and started home, but on the way stopped at Wallack's Theatre, where he had business to transact. In some way the bags became exchanged, and Mr. Kingston left the theatre manager's office with one which belonged to E. C. Wright, the New York agent of the glue company.

When the bag was delivered to Father O'Neil he discoverd the error. The bags were later returned to their rightful owners, and Father O'Neil received a letter to-day from the glue company, thanking him for his trouble in the matter.

VIOLATED MAIL LAWS?

James P. Brennen of Salem, charged with sending scurrilous postal cards through the mails to T. Flannagan Hayes, was arraigned before Commissioner Hayes to-day and held in $300 bonds for a hearing on November 7.

350 TONS OF NOISE ARRIVE

The good boys and girls of Boston may begin already to look forward to next Fourth of July, for there arrived on the British steamer Jesserie, which entered the harbor to-day, three hundred and fifty tons of Chinese and Japanese fireworks, consigned to Boston dealers. The Jesserie touched at fifteen ports in China, Japan, the Philippine Islands and Ceylon, and her cargo is worth nearly $2,000,000.

There was one lone passenger on the Jesserie. He was F. S. Chapman, of Saybrook, Ct., who is home for a two months' vacation. Mr. Chapman is the treasurer of the Province of Cotiz, on the Island of Panay.

PRIEST ASKS AID FOR LEPER COLONY

Father L. L. Conrady, successor of Father Damien, the French priest who died among the lepers on the Island of Molokai in the South Pacific, is a guest at St. John's Seminary, Brighton. He is raising funds for his work.

STRAIGHT TALK BY A GREAT WRITER
Julian Hawthorne's Views on Bodily Exercise

Julian Hawthorne is one of the greatest living authorities on athletics. He knows what is best to promote health and tells it in vivid, engrossing style that takes and holds your interest through every word. Everybody would live longer and feel better if he or she followed his advice on hygiene and exercise.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE CAMPAIGN
All the Political News Right from the Firing Line

This political campaign is the greatest one ever fought in Massachusetts. Another, just like it, is going on in New York. There is only one newspaper in New England from which you can learn just what is happening there and here in the great battle between the people and the Corporations which have usurped the powers of Government. That newspaper is the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN.

FUNNIEST PICTURES EVER DRAWN
Send a Ripple of Laughter Round the World

Cartoons are a blessing. They are a fine tonic for the mind. A good hearty laugh with Opper, Outcault, Dierkes and the other Funfest directors who created Maud, Happy Hooligan, Buster and Tige and the Katzenjammer Kids will aid digestion at your Sunday breakfast.

SOCIETY DOINGS DAINTILY DESCRIBED
Where Leaders of Fashion Spend the Beautiful Autumn Days

Autumn is the season when millionaires and beautiful women of leisure flit to the Berkshires or return from Summer resorts to magnificent Boston mansions to plan Winter entertainments. To learn where society leaders are and what they are about — whether riding to hounds, automobiling or racing in balloons —read the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

REAL INFORMATION ABOUT REAL ESTATE
Dealings in Houses and Land Accurately Described.

Real Estate is the kind of property that has the most intrinsic value. It is the source of all wealth. Everything on the earth came out of it. If you own a lot or a farm, you have something that will last until the end of the world. You can learn more from the SUNDAY AMERICAN than from any other newspaper.

FASHIONS BY PEN AND PICTURE
Mrs. Osborn Writes on Gowns with Authority

Many years ago some wise unknown said, "You may as well be dead as out of the Fashion." Nobody is quite able to ignore its dictation. Few women ever want to. What to wear is worth knowing. How to enhance personal charms is valuable advice. It is given by Mrs. Osborn in the SUNDAY AMERICAN.

COMIC POST CARDS DELIGHT ALL

WON 'HELLO' GIRL WHEN AT HARVARD; NOW WEDS HER

MRS. BILLINGS, FORMERLY MISS DURANT.

Cupid sat on the wire when, one evening about four years ago, Haskell Clark Billings, then a Harvard freshman, of New York City, called central. The voice of the girl at central was soft and sweet and the young man remembered it. Cupid found a chance to work when he tapped that wire and heard the two talking, strictly on business of course.

The little god strived in earnest and his efforts were crowned with success for a wedding has been announced. Mr. Billings was the bridegroom and the blushing bride was Miss Lucy Durant, of No. 80 Washington street, Somerville. The ceremony was performed at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church yesterday by the Rev. Father Ryan.

Often had Mr. Billings relieved the monotony of his studies at college with a call at the home of Miss Durant. His interest in the pretty telephone operator grew each day and they became engaged. To a few of his most intimate friends in the exclusive college club, the Ivy, he told of his love. At his graduation last June he suddenly broke the news to his parents by introducing the young lady as "my future wife."

Mr. Billings specialized on mechanical engineering while at college and upon his graduation went to Detroit, where he engaged in the automobile business. When he had become settled in his business he came East to claim the bride he had won in his college days. The wedding was a very simple one, none but the relatives and immediate friends of the bride and bridegroom being present.

The bride, prettily gowned in a brown broadcloth travelling suit and a black picture hat, was attended by her sister, Miss Emma Durant. The groomsman was Lawrence Connolly. Following a wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Billings started for an automobile trip to Detroit.

ROB BANK AND ESCAPE POSSE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26.—A message received here from Odin, Ill., says that the Bank of Odin, a private institution, was dynamited and looted by a gang of safe robbers early to-day. The report of the explosion attracted a crowd of citizens to the scene, and a running fight ensued, in which more than fifty shots were fired.

The bandits escaped with all their booty, the amount of which is not known. None of the citizens who engaged in the battle was hurt. It is not known whether any of the robbers was wounded.

FAIR, WARMER, THEN STORMY

Fair to-night; Saturday fair and warmer, followed by rain in the afternoon and evening, with light southerly to westerly winds, is the weather prediction furnished by Forecaster Smith to-day. The sudden fall of the mercury lasted only for a few hours. At 8 o'clock the thermometer registered 49, while at noon it had reached the 59 point. Forecaster Smith looks for a continuation of the warm weather until after the threatening storm, when he believes the weather will gradually grow cooler.

HEARST OUGHT TO GET SUPPORT OF DEMOCRATS

—W. J. BRYAN'S PAPER.

Commoner Points Out Vicious Character of Interests Opposing Him.

"GRAFTERS HIS ENEMIES"

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 26.—Under the caption of "Mr. Hearst's Good Fight," William J. Bryan's Commoner to-day comments on the New York gubernatorial campaign, as follows:

"The men and interests making up the opposition to William R. Hearst in New York afford ample reason why every loyal Democrat should give him enthusiastic support.

"Grafters Against Hearst."

"The men who 'preserved the national honor' in 1896, the insurance grafters, the advocates of special interests, the corporation managers, the Wall Street financiers and the bond brokers who trafficked in the governments—all these are solidly massed against Mr. Hearst, and their opposition should solidify the people in support of the man who is making such an open and telling fight against these harmful interests.

"Mr. Hearst is making a magnificent campaign and is frankly telling the people just where he stands. What he has accomplished for the people in the way of reforms through the instrumentality of his great newspapers is an evidence of what he will do if elected Governor of the Empire State.

"With Mr. Hearst in the Governor's chair there will be no more control of New York's executive by interests that are adverse to the people.

Entitled to Democratic Support.

"Mr. Hearst is specific and plain in his declarations, while his opponents indulge in generalization and vituperation.

"He has taken the people into his confidence and may be depended upon to carry out his campaign pledges.

"He is entitled to the support and vote of every Democrat who puts public good above private profit, and of every citizen who prefers good government by representatives of the people to bad government by representatives of special privileges."

PARKHURST AND POLICE PURIFY TENDERLOIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Tenderloin habitues are to-day seeking cyclone cellars to hide until the storm raised by the war to the death between the Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst and Police Commissioner Bingham blows over. Such a crusade as has been started by the controversy has not been witnessed in a long time.

The storm broke with a fury which outdid that of the recent southern hurricane, and 100 women who faced the bar in police court to-day bore evidence to the fact.

With Police Commissioner Bingham's retention of Captain Schlottman in command of the Tenderloin precinct because of the good work the commissioner says he has performed there, Bingham opened up to-day for a Parkhurst attack which the society was not long in seeing.

To prove that vice exists almost unchecked in Schlottman's precinct, despite Bingham's praise of his work, was the objective of the Parkhursites. So early today agents of the society began making raids in Schlottman's precinct.

Word of the Parkhurst raids was not long in reaching the Tenderloin station house, and immediately the police were hurried out on a crusade of their own to offset the raid of the Parkhurst sleuths. Detectives were rushed from police headquarters to take a hand in the game, the streets of the precinct were scoured, and all suspicious persons gathered in.

When the police and society agents got through the Tenderloin and West Forty-seventh street station houses were crowded with women. Professional bondsmen did a rushing business, but many of the women could not pay for their services and were compelled to remain in cells until court opened.

Drink Pabst,—
Be Healthy

PABST Blue Ribbon Beer should be in every home. It is without question the best beer for the sick or the well, because it tones and invigorates at the same time that it furnishes strength and health-building material for the body.

Pabst BlueRibbon when used by weak, nervous, tired, anemic, "worn out" people, gives best evidence of its great reconstructive properties. It quickly builds up the debilitated, exhausted system, creates by natural processes a normal, healthy appetite, invigorates the blood and nerves and refreshes the tired brain.

Physicians and food authorities in general now agree with Dujardin-Beaumetz, the renowned dietician, who has held that rich, pure, clean beer is an aid to digestion and promotes the general health. Pabst Blue Ribbon is richest in nutrition because made from eight-day malt.

Pabst Blue Ribbon is pure, known everywhere as the best and cleanest beer, because of the absolute purity of its ingredients and the cleanliness of the Pabst process of brewing, which is the result of sixty years' brewing and malting experience.

LETTERS PROTESTING UNDYING LOVE FIGURE IN GIRL'S SUIT FOR $15,000

'TAKE BLOTS AND MISTAKES FOR KISSES'

Correspondence of Alfred Viger and Pretty Emma Pilon Produced in Court.

PROPOSAL IN 2 LANGUGAES

PITTSFIELD, Oct. 26.—A great bundle of letters, in which the entire gamut of feeling, from love to hatred, pulsates, is the chief exhibit in the suit for $15,000 for alleged breach of promise, brought by Miss Emma Pilon against Alfred E. Viger, which is in progress before Judge Dana in the Superior Court.

In writing to her sweetheart the pretty little French girl had many hard struggles with the English language and was compelled frequently to consult a dictionary which Viger gave her for the purpose. Over and over the girl wrote her tender missives, trying to tell of her love. The original drafts of many of the letters were shown in court. Sometimes a younger sister of Emma, who knew more English, helped her in the composition.

Blots for Kisses.

Miss Pilon told the story of her meeting with Viger and when she came to the places where she had referred to other girls she cried softly. In one of the letters, in which there were several blots, she pleaded:

"Take all the mistakes and blots for kisses."

Viger has since been married. Mr. Pilon, the father of the plaintiff, on the witness stand, was asked if Viger asked him for the hand of his daughter in French or English.

"In both French and English," replied the father, "Viger asked me for the hand of my daughter."

Here are a few of the many letters that passed between the couple:

Hartford, Oct. 22.

Dear Alfred:

I arrived in Hartford safe and sound. I had to wait over two hours in Springfield, so you see I got in Hartford almost 4 o'clock. We won't be able to go back to Waterbury before morning. Have no fear. Hilda is here with me. You want to trust me as I trust you. We will go to Boston to stay over at Mrs. Dufresne's. Will write details to-morrow. I trust and hope you are not lonesome without me. I fel the same as when I left you this morning. Take all the mistakes and blots for kisses. Hilda sends you her regards. Remember me to your father and mother. In haste, your own EMMA.

My Little Yellow Chicken.

Waterbury, Oct. 30, 1904.

Dearest Sweetheart:

As Hilda is writing to her friend this afternoon, I am taking the same opportunity to answer your most welcome and loving letter, or postal, I should say. I am very sorry to hear that you have been sick. I hope that you are better now. I was expecting you yesterday, also the family. We went to the train, Hilda and I, but came back very much disappointed, mon petit poulet jaune (my little yellow chicken)—(Miss Pilon explained that this was the translation from the French and was the name he called her)—that you were not there, but I have for consolation that I will see you soon. I received a letter from Mrs. Parsons yesterday, also from Mrs. Gabeler and Mrs. Blair, telling me that they are waiting for me.

Last night, when I saw that you were not coming, I went to confession with mother. She was going and she wanted me to go with her. I can go again to the forty hours' devotion with you because I want to make my jubilee. I can tell you more when I see you (you understand).

You ask me what time I'll be in Pittsfield. I'll leave Waterbury Tuesday noon because mother wants me to go to mass with her that morning. You know it is a day of obligation, so I shall be in Pittsfield about 5 o'clock.

Hilda got a letter from her friend, Mr. Taubert, and he wished to be remembered to you.

I will close my letter now because I have a very sick headache. The family wish to be remembered to you, and give my kindest regards to your dear father and mother and aunt, and your petit poulet noir (your little black pullet) sends you all her love so au revoir.

From your ever loving,

EMMA.

Whispers "I Love You."

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 12, 1905.

Miss Emma Pilon:

Dear Friend:—Having just gone to the postoffice I found your welcome letter awaiting me. I answered your last letter. You know that it was impossible for me to go to Boston. I received another letter in answer to that, but as I thought you did not request an answer that was the reason for my silence. Must tell you that father has taken to his bed and is unable to sit up. I think that unless there is a change soon for the better I will soon be without a father.

My God, when I think of all my afflictions it seems more than I can bear, but for mother's sake I will keep up. I would gladly, Emma, grant the last request to meet you at Springfield, but am afraid in his present condition father might pass away and then I would never forgive myself for leaving him. If there should be a change for the better so that I could meet you in Springfield, will let you know or telegraph you if you will say where I could send a telegram without the others knowing it.

Emma, this is the beginning of a new year, and let me ask sincerely of you to pardon my past offences and faults, and as there is a just God above who knoweth all things let us trust in him and pray that again the sun may shine on us both. As soon as I can get away, that is when father's health permits, I will go to Springfield, and if you will grant me another favor, that is let me keep in touch with you, to let me hear from you—I will say occasionally—for I do not deserve even that much from you and could not ask any more of you. The promptness of my reply let this whisper to you—I LOVE YOU, I LOVE YOU—and do not believe the statement made in your last letter, for I never uttered such a thing. I remain yours sincerely,

ALFRED.

Let Us Forget the Past.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 13, 1905.

Mr. Alfred Viger:

Dear Friend—I received your letter this morning and did not expect this sad news. And let me tell you that I am sorry to hear it. I wouldn't want to have anything happen when you would be away and I would be the cause of it. I hope your father will get better. If the prayer of a friend can be heard I will pray for him and also for your mother and yourself. Keep up your courage, as you say, for your mother's sake.

If you see any way so that you can come to Springfield, that is if your father is better, come. Will you, for I want to see you? You won't have to stay very long, only a few hours. I will leave Boston Tuesday morning and will be in Springfield by the 1:30 train. So you see I won't be able to stay long in order to make the connection for the Waterbury train. Now if you do come you can telegraph at No. 62 Shawmut avenue, in care of Mrs. Amanda Dyer. I will be there until I go away. I received a letter from mother yesterday. She tells me they are going to move from an old place they rented to a nice place on South Main street, about where we took the trolley to go to Naugatuck.

Now, Alfred, so far as the past is concerned, let us forget it. It is better. I have forgiven you long ago. That is one reason I want to see you. We can understand better than writing. And let us hope that the Lord will fix it for the best. As the favor you asked to hear from me if it pleases you, Alfred, it will please me to hear from you, too, for my heart did not change.

Now I must end my letter in saying once more if you can come let me know, and if it is not too much of you I will expect another letter from you. And let me know how is your father. Once more, Alfred, keep up your courage. Everything will come out all right. I remain, sincerely your friend,

EMMA.

Afred E. Viger.

PRINCIPALS IN PITTSFIELD $15,000 SUIT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

IN SKIRTS, HARVARD MAN SCARES WOMEN

The Cambridge police force was kept on edge all last evening by reports of women being scared by a man in female costume, who turned out to be a Harvard student doing fraternity initiation stunts.

NATURE POET IN COWBOY TOGS SEES BOSTON

"Just Resting," Says Joaquin Miller, as He Follows Strenuous Campaign.

TAKES IN THE SUBWAY

Joaquin Miller, the breezy nature-poet of the West, with long coat, broad slouch hat, trouser legs stuffed in his boots, is walking through the streets of Boston to-day or making longer jumps on trolley cars visiting his friends here and seeing anything which his fancy suggests. "Resting," he calls it, but to any other man the resting of the sort Joaquin Miller has cut out for to-day's programme would be the hardest kind of work.

A long tramp in the country surrounding Boston, much of which will be spent in Franklin and other parks, is occupying the poet's attention to-day. He is visiting at the homes of friends, but spends little time in their society, as he must be out of doors, he declares, if he is to enjoy himself.

Picture of Rugged Health.

This is Miller's third visit to Boston in twenty-five years. The last time he was here was five years ago during a howling New England storm, so his sightseeing at that time was limited by the scanty range of vision among the millions of snow flakes flying in the air. He was here twenty-five years ago with John Boyle O'Reilly.

Miller is the picture of sturdy health. His appearance is striking as he strides along. His long gray hair and beard add not a little to his picturesqueness. He seems to be almost as athletic as ever, the passing years having seemingly touched him but lightly. His eyes are as keen as those of the proverbial eagle. He is more than six feet in height, and from the way he carries himself the grasshopper has not yet become a burden.

At Graves of Poet Friends.

The poet, who arrived here two days since, yesterday visited Mount Auburn Cemetery, where he saw the graves of his old and dear friends, Longfellow and Lowell. He visited the mounds which cover the forms of many other men with whom he had been acquainted in the days gone by.

A visit to Bunker Hill monument, which he had not seen for twenty-five years, proved disappointing to the poet of the Sierras. He declares that the surroundings have become almost repugnant. He says the district has become too closely built up, and that the view from either the base or the top are disappointing, for little else than house tops strike the eye.

He will take a trip through the whole length of the subway, which he refers to as the "hole," and also visit East Boston by way of the tunnel, just for the experience, he says, and incidentally to tell his neighbors when he returns West that he had taken in all the sights.

TWO HELD FOR HOUSE BREAKS

Charged with breaking, entering and larceny on three counts, Stanley H. Gould and John E. Duffy, who were arrested by Boston inspectors yesterday, were held in $1,000 for each count by Judge Bruce in the Malden District Court to-day. Each pleaded not guilty and waived examination.

It is alleged that the men broke into the homes of Chester Hunt and Horace T. Eastman in Malden and Julian C. Cutler in Medford and stole goods to the value of about $250. The police believe they will identify the men with other breaks.

STRIKING CAR WORKERS WILL APPEAL TO LAW

Will Ask Court to Enjoin Boston & Albany from Removing Allston Shops.

SAY STRIKE WILL SPREAD

The threat of the officials of the Boston & Albany Railroad to remove the Allston car shops to Albany, has aroused the striking car workers, and officers of the union said to-day that they would apply to the courts for an injunction to prevent the road from taking this action, which, they assert, is illegal and in violation of the statutes.

To a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter Financial Secretary John Ferson of the Allston Car Workers' Union said: "We know what is going on in the shops and the minute the officials start moving a piece of machinery we will apply for an injunction to stop such proceedings. The law passed when the Boston & Albany was merged with the New York Central, as set forth in the Acts and Resolves of 1900, will give us sufficient grounds. This law reads that the facilities of the road in this State shall not be reduced, and the moving of the car shops would be clearly a violation of the law."

Expect 15,000 to Go Out.

The strikers are firm in their determination to remain out until their demands are granted, and they have arranged for prominent labor leaders to attend meetings in Allston and deliver speeches. Frank K. Foster of Boston will speak at the next meeting.

Emissaries of the striking car workers are negotiating with the men in the West Springfield shops and in all the plants of the New York Central road to secure their co-operation in the contest. If they are successful it will result in 15,000 men striking.

Pecuniary assistance was voted the striking Allston men by the Readville employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road last night.

Helpers to Join Strike.

Treasurer William F. Ashton, of the Boston local of Machinist Helpers, demanded an increase of wages late yesterday afternoon for the machinist helpers employed at the Allston car shops. The demand was refused by Superintendent Canfield, of the setting up department, and it is expected that the machinist helpers will leave in a body to-day on a sympathetic strike with the car workers.

The machinists helpers number only thirty but labor leaders say if they quit work it will start a sympathetic movement that will result in 800 men dropping their tools and marching out of the shops.

TOWN LEAGUES BOOM RALLIES

To-night at Maynard and Hudson the Independence League will hold rallies in support of the State ticket nominated at the Independence League convention and indorsed by the Democratic convention.

The Democratic organizations in both towns have earnestly supplemented the work of the Leagues of the towns and a large audience is expected at each place.

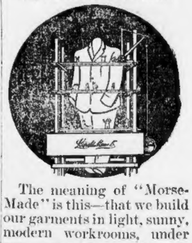
The speakers at both rallies will be Hon. Thomas H. Bates of Boston, Lawyer J. T. Auerbach of Boston, Representative John J. Mitchell of Marlboro, candidate for the Senate, and Cornelius J. Lynch of Maynard, candidate for the House.

TO MAKE RAILROADS FURNISH CARS OR PAY

MONTPELIER, Vt., Oct. 26.—A bill has been introduced in the Vermont Legislature providing that after shippers have ordered cars the railroads shall be given ninety-six hours in which to furnish them, with a penalty of one dollar for every twenty-four hours further delay.

The highest-grade, lowest-priced clothing that bears the Union Label is Morse-made.

If it's correct, it's at Morse's.
If it's at Morse's, it's correct.



The meaning of "Morse-Made" is this—that we build our garments in light, sunny, modern workrooms, under our personal superintendence. Our designers are clothes-architects of keen, broad education. That is why every season sees us advance—that is why our fall suits today are, both in style and quality, beyond any clothing ever made before.

Our suit prices are $10 to $35, and we are particularly proud of the $20, $25 and $30 lines.

The finishing touch to smart appearance is achieved by a fancy waistcoat. Our line is complete and pleasing.

SUFFERED AGONIES FOR FOUR YEARS

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh—Tried Different Physicians and All Kinds of Ointments—Could Walk Only With Crutches—Ohio Man Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES THE BEST ON EARTH"

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. When he found out that wouldn't work, he began trying to heal the wound with all kinds of ointment, until at last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. It is sixteen months ago since I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for my limb and foot. The first two months the Cuticura Remedies did not seem to work, but I kept on using them both. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble.

"It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6; but the doctors' bills were more like $600. You can publish my name and refer any one to write to me about Cuticura Remedies. I will answer all letters if postage is enclosed. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for every Humor, from Pimples to Scrofula, from Infancy to Age, consisting of Cuticura Soap, 25c., Ointment, 50c., Resolvent, 50c. (in form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), may be had of all druggists. A single set often cures. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

DECLARES FIRE INSURANCE OF STATE ROTTEN

Gotham Man Says Conditions Here Are Worse Than in New York Life.

"Compared with what would be brought to light by an investigation of fire insurance methods in Massachusetts, the rotten conditions revealed by the recent life insurance investigation in New York State would be as nothing," declares Charles E. Spratt, of New York, who spoke last night at the second quarterly meeting of the Home Furnishers' Association at the United States Hotel.

Mr. Spratt's speech is one of the severest arraignments of fire, or insurance of any kind, ever heard in this city. With facts and figures to back all sensational assertions, he amazed the furniture men with his remarkable revelations.

"Standard Oil is merely a baby, simply in the kindergarten class, compared with the Insurance Trust," he declared. "And the government instead of protecting the insured steps in and says no one else shall write insurance for you unless he is a member of the trust. Instead of protecting the insured the government makes it easier for the insured to rob you.

"Some of the dishonest dealers have a fire, and it is a matter of statistics that 48 per cent. of the losses occur in this way. Then the company says the furniture dealers are a poor risk and up go the rates. You have to pay this 48 per cent. in your extra premiums.

"The agents deduct 15 per cent. of the gross premium for their commission. How long could you do business if you paid your salesmen at that rate? The negligence of the agents and the dilatoriness of the inspectors is doubling the rates for you year after year."

CLEVER MAGIC FOR SHOPPERS

Considered far and away the best sleight of hand performer seen in Boston in years by the hundreds who have watched him do his wonderful tricks at Houghton & Dutton's great stores at Tremont and Beacon streets, the wizard Vermelbo to-day delighted larger and more bewildered audiences than ever. The well-known firm believes in enlivening the absorbing routine of shopping, and has engaged the services of this master of the art of juggling and sleight of hand for another week.

Vermelbo has traveled all over the world, and has spent a long time in India studying and learning the wonders of the magicians of the East. He is admired greatly, for he indulges in none of the stale and familiar tricks of the common sleight-of-hand artists. Every performance is free, and twenty-five minutes is given from the cares of shopping to an entertainment, the like of which has never been seen before in any store or mart of trade.

One of Vermelbo's puzzling performances is the taking of a tiny seed which he plants in a flower pot, causes it to germinate and sprout and grow before the wondering eyes of the spectators to a blooming bush. Roses or pinks are born, as it pleases the master, and these beautiful blooms are distributed among the spectators.

Another trick which delights all who have seen it is the birth of the flag. Vermelbo takes red, white and blue handkerchiefs, and after a little palming produces an American flag. His tricks with three and four billiard balls are truly marvelous. Vermelbo performs every hour during the store day.

BIG CALL FOR LIPTON TICKETS

Bulletin No. 5 on the Lipton dinner, issued b Mayor Fitzgerald's publicity bureau to-da, is, in part, as follows:

"Applications for tickets for the complimentary dinner to be given Sir Thomas Lipton by Mayor Fitzgerald and the citizens of Boston at Hotel Somerset next Wednesday evening are coming in rapidly. Governor Guild will be unable to be present on account of a previous engagement to speak at a political rally that evening, but ex-Governor John D. Long has accepted.

"The general committee of arrangements, headed by Mayor Fitzgerald, urges a speedy acknowledgment on the part of those who have received invitations to the dinner."

GIRLS ACCEPT 'KIND HELP' AND LAND IN JAIL

Special to the Boston American.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Della and Flora St. Peter, two pretty mill girls from Fall River, aged twenty-two and twenty, are prisoners in the county jail here through having accepted aid from two men unknown to them when hungry and penniless, after a vain search for work.

Their last dollar gone and with no place to spend the night, they went to the railroad station to rest and warm themselves in the waiting room, and were there accosted by Harry George and Spiloa Baness, two well-dressed young Greeks who had heard them asking for work and who gained their confidence through pretending to know where they could get employment.

The men took them to supper and to the theatre, and then to a Chestnut street lodging house, where they were told a kind-hearted landlady "would trust them for a room."

The police saw them enter and arrested all four. The court imposed a fine of $15 and costs on each and the young men, one of whom wore a money belt filled with gold, paid promptly but left the girls to work out their dues in jail.

PEARY AT POLE, WIFE THINKS

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Robert E. Peary, wife of Commander Robert E. Peary, the Arctic explorer, says she has the utmost confidence in the ultimate return of Commander Peary and expresses herself as positive that he has succeeded in reaching the North Pole.

THINK BIG SHIP IS WRECKED

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 26.—Over 100 life preservers, part of a white yawl boat and a fragment of a boat's gunwale which came ashore here lead shipping men to believe that a large vessel has been wrecked near the coast.

SETTEE DEATH BED FOR WOMAN

Suffering from epilepsy, Mrs. Isaac B. Weeks was laid on an operating table in the Melrose Hospital yesterday, and then moved again to a settee, where she died. There was not a bed available for her use.

Mrs. Weeks had been attending a funeral when she was overcome. Placed upon the operating table, she had to be moved for a victim of an accident.

43 YEARS IN JAIL; SEEKS PARDON

AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 26.—Having served forty-three years in Thomaston Prison, where he is a life prisoner, convicted of killing Mrs. Harriet B. Swan at Fryeburg in 1861, Ephraim Gilman has petitioned for a pardon. Influential men in the State are interested in the petition.

The murder of Mrs. Swan was one of the mysteries of Maine crime. Handwriting in a note found beside her convicted Gilman.

PARENTS BLESS RUNAWAY PAIR

The runaway marriage of Miss Lillian Prindall, twenty-one, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Prindall of Almont court, Malden, and Stanley C. Murphy, twenty-one, of High street, Everett, has just become known. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Studley at Providence. They have received the parental blessing.

Mr. Murphy is employed as a clerk by a large Boston [illegible].

Warfare.

When two nations engage in deadly conflict the world regards the event as a great calamity. When a battle takes place the heroism of the armies becomes a matter of historical record, the names of the heroes are engraved upon the tablets of fame, and the slain, the victims of their country's cause, are mourned by the nation. The stealing warfare is waged by disease. It is a conflict that never ends, and the entire world constitutes a single battlefield. To successfully meet this dangerous foe the body must be in a healthy condition; the blood must be free of all impurities and the system cleansed of all foreign matter. Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound is the best weapon to be used in the fierce battle with ailments of the stomach, liver and kidneys, as it is speedy and effective. Thirty days' treatment 25c. Investigate Our Men's $15.00, $18.00 and $20.00

Suits, Topcoats and Raincoats

They Are Surprising Values.

The class and character of our Fall and Winter Clothing for men advances us another step forward in our leadership. The new fabrics are beautiful—custom tailoring no longer serves as a fair comparison for our ready-to-wear clothes. They fairly surpass the ordinary tailor's work in grace of design and smartness.

We want you to see how easy it is to be fitted, to be satisfied and to experience that feeling of being well groomed which one of these suits imparts to the wearer.

You know the reputation of the clothes we sell. You know how skilfully they are made and tailored, but you must see the new garments we now display to appreciate more fully than ever before their absolute superiority.

Men's Topcoats

The new Fall overcoats are 46 inches long and are single breasted, with back moderately fitted to the figure, bell shaped at bottom, deep centre vent, full collar and lapel, natural shoulders, and a splendid choice of plain and fancy fabrics. Our coats this season have more snap and style than for many season's past, and we're proud of them. Proud to have you try them on.

$15 $18 $20

Men's Suits

In choice weaves and patterns that one does not find in the ordinary run of clothes—cut in the height of fashion—lapels broad, with long roll. A. O. H. CUP FOR ANDREW MACK

At the revival of "Arrah na Pogue" at the Boston Theatre Monday evening Andrew Mack will be cordially welcomed upon his return to Boston, his home city, by members of the Order of Hibernians, including National President Matthew Cummings, State President Rogers of Worcester, State Vice-President O'Donnell, of Holyoke and others equally well known.

A banquet will follow the performance, at which Mr. Mack and his friends will be guests.

The committee of arrangements consists of George H. Sheehan, W. H. Cutting, Thomas McMackin and John J. Curley.

In behalf of the Hibernians, National President Cummings will present Mr. Mack a loving cup.

Others expected at the banquet are P. R. Toomey, former vice-president, of Springfield; John H. Dillon, county president of Suffolk County; Aldermen Curley and Whelton, Lawrence H. Sullivan of Charlestown, Michael P. Higgins of Charlestown, and Frank Corrigan and Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

ACCUSED OF MURDER; SANE.

WORCESTER, Oct. 26.—Robert L. Hunter of Roxbury, indicted for murder in the second degree for killing Charles H. La Crosse in this city June 25, was declared sane yesterday by Drs. E. V. Scribner and H. M. Quinby, who examined him.

Catarrh of the Stomach

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effectual Cure for It.

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure for this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ills., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

HOPE TO DEFEAT HILTON IN STATE SENATE FIGHT

Working People Enthusiastic in Support of His Opponent, John McManmon.

JOHN J. McMANMON.

SENATOR HILTON'S OPPONENT.

Special to the Boston American.

LOWELL, Oct. 26.—Working people in nine towns and eight of the Lowell wards are showing such an interest in the senatorial campaign of Representative John J. McManmon as augurs ill for the political future of State Senator Horton H. Hilton.

When the Overtime Bill, for the protection of women and children in the factories, came up for reconsideration last Winter and was jammed through to defeat by President William A. Dana's vote, Senator Hilton, representing eight wards of this textile community, was absent.

He had been "called home," called home by a fake telegram which said that a member of his family was ill.

Horton H. Hilton is a Boston & Maine employe. The Boston & Maine lobby was working with the textile lobby against the Overtime Bill.

In the rooms of the Republican City Committee recently Hilton is said to have declared: "I do not believe in the Overtime Bill, and, if it comes up again during the coming year and should I be in the Senate, I will vote against it."

It is said that this new courage springs from the fact that Hilton's old bailiwick has been redistricted. Formerly it was the Seventh Middlesex, consisting of Chelmsford, Dracut, and the first eight wards of Lowell. Now it is the eighth, made up of Ashby, Chelmsford, Dracut, Dunstable, Groton, Pepperell, Shirley, Townsend and Tyngsboro, with the same eight Lowell wards.

Against him, however, is pitted a sterling young man, John J. McManmon, whom Republicans have helped to honor before. Mr. McManmon, a florist and decorator, has served two terms in the House. Speaker Cole placed him on the public health committee, where, by preventing the passage of the trunk sewer scheme, he saved his district many thousands of dollars.

BEATEN BY RECTOR; LOST JOB.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Oct. 26.—M. H. Athoe, choirmaster at St. James's Episcopal Church, who was whipped the other day by Rev. H. M. Donbell, was discharged yesterday by the rector committee.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Daniel Webster Lane, Republican candidate from the Eleventh Congressional district, has written George C. McCabe, secretary of the Ward 25 Wage Earners' Club, accepting the invitation to attend to-morrow night's mass-meeting of the club in Red Men's Hall, Brighton. Andrew W. Peters, the Democratic candidate, had already accepted the invitation.

Among the other speakers will be Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State branch, A. F. of L.; Alderman Fred J. Kneeland, John E. Potts, president of the Boston Central Wage Earners' Club; Edmund Ward, president of the Ward 19 Wage Earners' Club, and Michael Athridge. All the Wage Earners' clubs in the Eleventh District will be represented at the meeting.

MACHINISTS FOR COUGHLAN.

President David N. Coughlan of the Typographical Union was indorsed for the school board by Machinists' Lodge No. 264 at last night's meeting. The label of the Allied Printing Trades Council was also indorsed. Twenty-one candidates were initiated. The office of financial secretary has been made permanent, with John Wilson as the incumbent. The lodge is contemplating changing its initiation ceremonies, with the object of making them more impressive.

CIGARMAKERS MEET.

Cigarmakers' Union No. 97 has issued a call for a meeting to-night in Investigator Hall, No. 9 Appleton street. The following amendments will be voted upon by referendum: "To hold a convention Feb. 1, 1907; to abolish the punching [illegible] cards; that all becoming members of the Industrial Workers of the World shall forfeit membership in the International Cigarmakers' Union." An executive board will also be chosen.

LABOR NOTES.

The annual concert and dance of lithographers of Boston and vicinity will be held to-night in Town Hall, Revere.

Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 will open a series of entertainments in Wells Memorial Hall next Wednesday evening, when whist and dancing and a concert for members and their friends will be the feature.

The Pattern Makers' Association has indorsed President David N. Coughlan of the Typographical Union for the school board.

A Wage Earners' club will be formed to-night in Natick. Joseph R. Gill of Boston Typographical Union No. 13 will be the principal speaker.

NOTICE TO LABOR UNIONS.

All unions which take action concerning the candidacy of Mr. Guild, Mr. Draper, Mr. Moran or Mr. Brown are requested to inform the BOSTON AMERICAN at once of such action. Address

RAISING FUND TO AID LEPERS

Rev. Father L. L. Conrardy, who has been a missionary in the Orient for thirty-five years, is in this country for the purpose of raising money with which to found a leper colony near Canton, China, where, he says, there are between 40,000 and 50,000 sufferers from that disease.

The missionary is in Boston at present and is addressing meetings, at which he tells of the suffering of the unfortunate ones. He was the companion of Father Damien, who died from leprosy in Molokai and administered the last rites of the church to him.

The lepers near Canton are among the very poor people. They live entirely on rice. It costs only seventy-five cents a month to feed them. One dollar a year will clothe and house each of them, making a total cost per year of $10 for each person.

BALL PLAYER TO WED GRANITE STATE GIRL

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 26.—The engagement is announced here of Miss Blanche G. Rand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rand of Miller avenue, and Joseph Harris of Boston, a member of the pitching staff of the Boston Americans.

TAKENTOCOURT; HIS WIFE DYING

WORCESTER, Oct. 26.—Dragged from the side of his dead child and his wife, who is nearly dead, Philip J. Jason of Boston, was brought into court yesterday, to appear against Maurice K. Richardson of Athol, against whom he brought suit for assault, but whom he did not want to prosecute.

He told the court of his child's death and his wife's condition, and after some time, was excused on bond.

HORSE BOLTS WITH 7 WELLESLEY GIRLS

WELLESLEY, Oct. 26.—With seven Wellesley College girls in the carriage behind him, a horse bolted yesterday across the lawn in front of Noanet Hall, only stopping when the wheels struck the stone curb at the edge of the drive, breaking one and snapping a shaft. The girls were taken to their rooms in hysterics.

URUGUAY LOSES GOVERNMENT BOAT

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, via Galveston, Tex., Oct. 26.—The government vessel Flores, after capturing two boats belonging to a Canadian whaler, entered Montevideo harbor and foundered.

Will Bet $10,000 on Side Frankie Can Beat Jimmy

"PA" NEIL SCORES BRITT

Jim Neil, father of Frankie Neil, who is at the Howard Theatre looking after the interests of Joe Gans and Tex Rickarts in the fight pictures, says he will match his boy against Jimmy Britt for $10,000 a side, winner take all.

"If Britt doubts my boy is willing to fight him, the offer to let the victor take all the gate receipts and the $20,000 side bet, should be enough to dispel the illusion. The whole story in a nutshell is that Britt knows my boy can beat him to a standstill, and the excuse that he offers that Frankie is too light to fight him is a big bluff.

Knocked Head Off Britt.

"Two years ago, when Britt and Frankie were simultaneously training for bouts at Croll's Garden, Frisco, through an injury to Britt's sparring partner, it was brought about so that they had a chance to box together. Frankie simply knocked the head off Jimmy, and he could have stopped him in three rounds if he so desired.

"The next day when I asked Britt if he was going to box Frankie again he answered in the negative, and said that he thought he was too heavy for him. And he certainly carried out his opinion, as that afternoon he had a young fellow boxing him that he could whip at will.

"Who did Britt ever beat that entitles him to stand aloof from Frankie, who is a real champion. Martin Canole is the only fellow he beat decisively. In all his other bouts he only won on a decision. Jack O'Keefe beat him and later got a draw; Battling Nelson toyed with him.

"In the opening round of his fight with the Dane the latter got inside and handed him a punch on the nose, and the boxer that Nelson can do that to is not much good.

After "Corbett" or Terry.

"If Frankie can't get a match on with Britt, he is willing to fight either Young "Corbett" or Terry McGovern, and he could lick either of them with ease. When "Corbett" was training at Shannon's for his mill with Nelson, Frankie boxed with him, and gave him a terrific walloping in the three rounds that they sparred.

"Frankie knocked out Dick Hyland in fifteen rounds a year ago, and Hyland knocked out "Corbett" in six rounds, and I don't see any reason on earth why he can't whip him, and besides I have the money to back up my assertion. As to Terry, I know perfectly well that because Frankie can toy with Britt, and cognizant of the fact that McGovern defeated Britt last Winter in a ten-round bout in New York, that Frankie would not have much difficulty in winning from the Brooklynite. Frankie has fought thirty-nine battles, and has never taken the count, and that's certainly a great record.

"Frankie now weighs 122 pounds, and is in Frisco in fine condition. I received a letter from him yesterday, in which he states that he is in the pink of condition, and ready to fight them all.

Want Him to Meet Cove.

"Frankie says they want him to meet Percy Cove, a new-comer in the fighting game, but he sees no reason why he should waste time with this boy, when there are so many good boxers in the ring. He also says the only reason they won't let him fight Britt is because they know deep in their hearts that he could beat him to a frazzle."

"Pa" Neil, when asked why his boy wouldn't meet Jimmy Walsh of this city, said that Walsh was wired his ticket to go to Frisco for the bout, but that he never showed up, and the only excuse his manager, Eddie Keevin, gave, was that the purse of $2,000 offered was too small."

DORCHESTER DRIVERS HOLD A BIG BANQUET

While the true lovers of the horse were a bit disappointed last evening at the annual banquet of the Dorchester Driving Club in the Quincy House through the lack of after-dinner conversation pertaining to the equine, yet so much of interest was uttered concerning the political situation in Dorchester that all went home satisfied.

It was understood that the real point to be brought out was the completion of the Franklin Field speedway, which originally was donated $25,000 by the city, but after starting on the proposition suddenly it was stopped at the end of a quarter of a mile with a wire fence for a border.

From Mayor Fitzgerald, through the entire list of City Hall representatives, encouraging words were uttered that in the near future the speedway would be made into the course the members of the Dorchester Driving Club and their friends are hoping for.

William LaCroix, president of the Lynn Driving Club, rolled the ball merrily along the chosen path, and the other invited officials from the same enterprising organization, Messrs. Mayor Barney, ex-Mayor Eastman, Judge Berry and Secretary Brown, demonstrated the value of the intercity matinees between the two clubs, and a nice wish for another intercity matinee in the Spring at Combination Park.

S. Walter Wales, with the aid of Ed. Richardson, did the honors of toastmaster. Mention of these names is sufficient to show that each of the speakers was introduced to the queen's taste. Among the other brilliant orators were Alderman Whelton, Street Commissioner Gallivan, Senator Thomas Leavitt, Alderman Charles Draper and Joseph O'Connell.

Guests who were seated at the right of President George A. D'Arcy at the head table were: Mayor Fitzgerald, Mayor C. Neal Barney of Lynn, Judge John W. Berry of Lynn, Elmer C. Bray of the Lynn Driving Club, Superintendent James H. Doyle of the Boston Street Department, Chairman Edward L. Canley of the Boston Board of Aldermen. On the left were: S. Walter Wales, toastmaster; President William Lacroix of the Lynn Driving Club, ex-Mayor Henry W. Eastman of the Lynn Driving Club, Vice-President Walter B. Moore of the Lynn Driving Club, Vice-President W. E. Newbert of the Dorchester Driving Club, Secretary George H. Greenwood of the Dorchester Driving Club, Treasurer Clifton Coburn of the Lynn Driving Club, Treasurer B. S. Fitch of the Dorchester Driving Club.

Other guests present were: Charles Chamberlin, Lynn Driving Club; Alderman William Berwin, Alderman W. H. Hennessy, Alderman George A. Battis and Alderman John A. Baldwin, Councilmen E. M. Green, W. C. Clark, W. B. Willcutt of Ward 24 and William Bramhall, Charles Clark and Charles Beatty of Ward 20, Captain Charles W. Hunt of Station 11.

A. A. U. GAMES IN NEW YORK NEXT MONTH

The coming indoor championship meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, which is to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, November 9 and 10, will no doubt be one of the most interesting athletic carnivals that has been held in years.

The Amateur Athletic Union at the outset of its career decided that for the betterment of sport it would be a good idea to hold its championships each year, and they were held in Boston and Chicago, and the plan of the present committee to revive these fixtures for each Winter will meet with popular approval among the athletes of the country.

Among the colleges the giving of this indoor championship is hailed with delight, and large teams have been promised from Yale, Harvard, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton, Cornell and other colleges, who will use this meeting as a tryout for the intercollegiate team of next Spring, for it is a well-known fact that nearly all of the college trainers now believe in Winter games as a good means of preparation for the Spring work.

GANS WANTS NOLAN TO GIVE ACCOUNTING

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 26.—An injunction to prevent the representation of the Goldfield fight pictures until Billy Nolan, manager of Battling Nelson, makes an accounting of the receipts is contemplated by Joe Gans, who has a third interest in the views. According to Gans, he has not received a cent of the receipts from the display of the pictures, and he is beginning to get suspicious.

Two sets of pictures are being displayed—one on the Eastern and the other on the Western circuit. Nolan and Nelson have charge of the Western division. The receipts are supposed to be forwarded to the headquarters of the company having charge of the pictures at San Francisco. Gans says that he has been notified that no money has yet been turned in. The pictures were placed on display ten days after the fight, and the total receipts to date are estimated to be nearly $100,000.

"Nolan is holding back the receipts on the pretext that he wants a complete statement of the money received from both circuits, and he has steadfastly refused to give me an accounting," said Gans. "I am going to Chicago, and if I cannot secure a settlement I shall probably seek an injunction to prevent the display of the views until the matter is straightened out."

'I'M AFTER THAT CUP AGAIN,' SIR THOMAS ANNOUNCES

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—That Sir Thomas Lipton is to have another chance at the America Cup seems assured from remarks made by Sir Thomas himself at a banquet given in Delmonico's in his honor by the Brooklyn Yacht Club and from hints dropped by members of the New York Yacht Club following a conference between Sir Thomas and officers of the yacht club at an informal luncheon in the Midday Club in the Broad Exchange, No. 25 Broad street.

"I am hopeful that I shall be able soon to pave the way for another challenge," was the diplomatic way Sir Thomas put it at the banquet. "I shall never rest satisfied," he added, "till that cup takes a trip back to England."

These words, taken in connection with the assertion Sir Thomas made after the conference with the New York Yacht Club men that "everything had been satisfactory" to him, and that the conference had "left nothing to be desired," were interpreted to mean that another international race is practically an accomplished fact, and that it would be sailed by real yachts, and not by the skimming dishes that have been compulsory under the old rules of measurement governing the contest for the much-prized trophy.

The conference in the Midday Club had been arranged especially in anticipation of a challenge from Sir Thomas. Those present, in addition to the Irish baronet, were Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt of the New York Yacht Club, Vice-Commodore Henry Walters, Rear-Commodore Seymour L. Husted, Secretary G. A. Cormack, F. G. Bourne, Lewis Cass Ledyard, E. D. Morgan and E. L. Lorillard.

The baronet's proposals, it is said, were received favorably, and it appeared that the majority of those present were for a race under the new rules.

At the banquet in the evening Sir Thomas was in high spirits, and his speech, although diplomatic, was generally taken to mean that nothing remains to insure a race but the dispatch of a formal challenge, which, of course, cannot be done until Sir Thomas is back in England.

Sir Thomas began his speech by complimenting the Brooklyn yachtsmen for what they had done for deep sea racing. He spoke of the recent race to Bermuda, and complimented Mrs. Robinson, who steered the yacht Gauntlet in that contest. Referring to the America's cup, he said:

"I wish to tell you that I have not given up hope of having another chance to take back that famous old trophy. I hope soon to be able to pave the way for another challenge. I shall never rest satisfied until the cup takes a trip back t England.

"The new rule of measurement adopted by the New York Yacht Club provides for a more wholesome type of boat, and I hope that the next race will be sailed under those rules."

STEIN BEAT GLEASON.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26.—Kid Stein's aggressiveness entitled him to a shade the best of Kid Gleason in the windup at the Broadway A. C. last night.

FARMER THOUGHT COBURN WAS THE "AUTO BURGLAR"

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Mistaken for the "auto burglar" was Ralph Coburn while driving the twenty horsepower Maxwell touring car on the early morning trip of the 2,500 mile non-stop run.

It happened near Wayland. Rounding a turn in the road, the machine suddenly dashed upon a market wagon. Coburn blew the horn, but it would emit little sound, being choked with mud.

Then the occupants of the car shouted, but instead of getting out of the way the driver stopped his team and threw up his hands, exclaiming: "Boys, I am only a poor truck farmer and have got nothing."

"Get out of the way," yelled Coburn. This he proceeded to do, and the machine passed by.

It then dawned upon the occupants of the Maxwell that the driver was not in the habit of meeting autos at the early hour of 2:30 on the road and had mistaken their demands to get out of the road for something like "hands up," and believed them to be the "auto burglars" in operation.

With the return of fair weather to-day the hopes of the contestant arose considerably, and the supporters that the Maxwell will finish the run with the record it is after to its credit are growing hourly.

The ninth trip to Worcester and return was completed at 3:55 this morning, with the mileage total at 787. Coburn, who made this run immediately set out on another trip, arriving back in the city at 8:30 this morning.

Thus far the only thing outside of filling the tanks and oil cups that has been done is to change the spark plug, which was done by Coburn nearing Worcester yesterday morning in the storm. When the car pulled up in front of the Worcester club on one of its trips of the morning a bystander pulled a nail out of one of the shoes, which had fortunately gone in on a slant and not through. Thus far, no tire trouble has been experienced. Many times a day the drivers pass machines hung up by the roadside with tire trouble, and wonder how soon their turn will come.

With the odometer reaching 875½ miles for the first ten trips the eleventh was started at 8:45, with Lucius Tyler again at the wheel. With him on this trip he had Mr. Peabody of the Ford Motor Car Company as an observer and J. Fortescue, secretary of the Bay State Automobile Association, as a passenger.

The re-entrance of Edward Russell Thomas the New York banker, into the automobile racing game was presaged by his purchase yesterday of the Hotchkiss racing car used as a substitute car by Elliott F. Shepard in the recent Vanderbilt Cup Race. The car is the one driven by LeBlon in the Grand Prix this year and is of 125 horse power (French Rating) and exactly a duplicate in every detail of this year's Vanderbilt car. Mr. Thomas' purchase of the car was unexpected. After the sale had been made, Mr. Thomas took a drive in the car—which having four speeds and a reverse can be easily manipulated in city streets—he returned and said the car was most satisfactory he had ever driven. He stated that he would use the car at Ormond Beach or in any of the big races, he said that he did not wish to make public his plans. But he refused to deny that he would again enter racing.

In the recent run of the Pittsburg Automobile Club to Cambridge Springs, Pa., about forty cars started. The fastest run was made by Al. Banker, who covered the 110 miles in a Pierce Great Arrow in 4 hours, 1 minute, net running time.

HUB HORSE MAKES GOOD

Trainer Dick Lawrence of Boston won the 2:11 pace at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Baltimore, yesterday with the pacing gelding Rey del Diablo, the property of Walter Bates of Dorchester. Jennie W. was top-heavy favorite, but after taking the first couple of heats was compelled to take a back seat, the Boston horse winning the next three and race.

All through the early portion of the season Lawrence and Bates had the worst of luck. Later the former sent home all of the string except Rey del Diablo.

HARVARD LEAVES FOR WEST POINT TO-DAY

Harvard's varsity football squad will leave to-night for West Point, where they will meet the Cadets in their annual battle to-morrow.

The Crimson warriors will leave Harvard square, where the student body will give them a rousing send-off, at 4 o'clock this afternoon in order to catch the 4:30 train at the Back Bay station for Fall River, where they will take the Fall River boat for New York. They will spend the night at the Murray Hill Hotel, and will leave at 10:30 to-morrow morning for Garrison's, to be ferried across to West Point. They will lunch at the academy.

After the game they will leave at 5:42 for New York, where they will spend the night at the Murray Hill Hotel, and leave Sunday morning on the 10:30 train for Boston.

Before the Harvard players leave town today they will hold short practice in the Stadium at 2:30.

Coach Bill Reid will not accompany the men to New York, but will go ahead of them in order to attend a meeting of the football rules committee to-night. He will go with his men to West Point to-morrow.

The following men will be taken on the trip:

Foster, Burnham, Burr, Fraser, Gummere, Gray, Hall, Hopewell, Hoar, [illegible], Kersburg, Kennard, Lincoln, Lockwood, Miller, Macdonald, Mason, Newhall, [illegible], Osborne, Orr, Parker, Peirce, Starr, [illegible], Wendell, Warren, Manager Reynolds, Assistant Manager Dutcher, Second Assistant Manager Bigelow, Trainer Donovan, Rubbers O'Leary and McKloskey, and "Shamrock," the cobbler.

Leo Leary, who played left end for Harvard last season, had the honor of scoring the first touchdown of the season for the second team against the varsity in the practice yesterday at Cambridge. It was made when the varsity attempted a forward pass in mid-field, which Leary blocked, and darted with the ball to the varsity goal before they had time to realize what was taking place.

However, the varsity played good football yesterday and rolled up twenty-three points against the [illegible] second team.

Rand and [illegible], ends, who have been doing good work on the second team, were taken over to the varsity squad.

Kersburg was given a test [illegible].

WEST POINT LINE PICKED FOR GAME WITH THE CRIMSON

Special to the Boston American.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 26.—There was no scrimmage yesterday, Coach Graves deciding a rest would benefit the men more than hard work. A long signal practice was held and all the formations that will be tried to-morrow against Harvard run through. During the past week the forward pass has been noticeably absent, but since the Cadets have never been able to use it to advantage, it is not likely to be sprung in the coming game.

The handling of punts was given much attention, Coach Torney taking Hill and Mountford and punting to them, both men handling the ball cleanly.

The makeup of the line that will face Harvard is decided to be Hanlon and [illegible] ends, Weeks and Pullen tackles, Erwin and Christy guards, Sultan centre. The makeup of the backs depends altogether on Johnson's condition. If he is able to play quarterback, then Mountford goes in at fullback. If Johnson does not play, Mountford will play quarterback, Hill right halfback, Arnold left halfback and Moose fullback.

The officials in tomorrow's game will be: McCracken referee, Morice and Langford umpires and Okeson linesman.

DARTMOUTH OFF TO MEET WILLIAMS TODAY

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 26.—Dartmouth had her last practice yesterday before her big game with Williams to-morrow at Springfield. The team will leave on the 2 o'clock train to-day for the battleground, and twenty-seven men, besides coaches and managers, will be taken along.

The students were very enthusiastic at the practice yesterday and a large number of them will accompany the team to Springfield to cheer the Green warriors on to victory.

The practice was light and the men were given a much needed rest. There was no scrimmage, the men being restricted to fast signal work and the perfection of the forward pass in all its variations.

The coaches expect the light Williams team to spring a surprise in the way of speedy forward passes, and consequently had the first line-up at work in anticipation of the plays that Williams expected to use, especially when near the Green's goal line.

THE HOUSE OF DOOM

Synopsis

SIBYL BURNET, a beautiful New York society girl, daughter of a wealthy leather merchant with a palace on Riverside Drive and a country home at Bayside, playfully asks Wilfrid Hughes, a friend and lover of her school days, to marry her.

This Hughes declines to do, firmly but politely, suggesting that she accept instead Ellice Winslow, a friend of her brother Jack, who had plainly shown his mad infatuation for this dashing beauty. "Tibbie," as Sibyl is called by every one, tells her old friend that is the only course left open to her if he refuses to become her husband.

"It's a secret. I've told nobody; therefore you'll not say a word, will you?" said Tibbie.

"Certainly not. But I congratulate you. Winslow is, I believe, a real good fellow, and I can only hope you will love him," Wilfrid answered.

"I shall learn to love him—in time, I suppose," she answered. "Look, there he is."

And glancing down I saw the well-set-up figure striding over the lawn, together with her brother Jack, my old friend, Eric Domville, Tom Widcombe and several ladies of the house party.

"Tibbie," I said, seriously, turning to her, "you know we've known each other many years. I was your first sweetheart, and afterward your friend. I am still your firm friend, and as such I may be permitted to give you a single word of advice—to urge you not to marry that man unless you really love him. Is it wise of you? Remember, I am still your platonic friend, and have every regard for your future happiness. To serve you I am always ready. That you know. Only command me, Tibbie."

She hesitated for a moment, then, turning to me with that strange, anxious look upon her countenance, an expression most unusual for her, she said in a low, intense voice:

"I wonder if I might actually take you at your word, Wilfrid. I wonder if—if"—and she hesitated, pursing her lips, and I saw that her hand trembled.

"Of course, I'm always ready to assist you," I said, somewhat surprised at her sudden change of manner.

"Ah, no," she gasped, suddenly pale to the lips, a strange look of terror in her eyes. "My secret! I am very foolish. I cannot tell it to you—you of all men. It is too terrible. You would hate me."

"Your secret!" I echoed. "What secret, Tibbie? Tell me."

But she turned away from me, and, covering her white face with her hands, burst into a flood of tears.

It was not long, however, before Wilfrid discovered at least part of Tibbie's secret. That night after dinner his best friend, Eric Domville, told him of a scene he had witnessed in the Tennant woods that afternoon—a secret meeting and a quarrel between Tibbie and some unknown man.

While the two men talked the butler came rushing in with news of the discovery of a murdered man being found in the woods.

In great alarm, the two staunch friends went immediately to the spot, bent on saving anything that might serve as proof against Tibbie, for in their hearts they feared her meeting had some connection with this crime.

They found the dead man, and hastily, before the police arrived, searched the body.

Hurriedly they tried to get away, but saw they had been watched by a dark figure crouching in the bushes to the left.

Who was this person? What could his spying mean?

After their return to the house Domville and Hughes read the letters they have taken from the dead man's pocket. From them they discover at least a part of Sibyl's secret—that at one time she had loved this man, known as John Parham of Larchmont.

It is far beyond midnight when, as they sit talking and wondering how they are to face Sibyl, a knock sounds at the door. Wilfrid opens it, and there before them stands the girl they fear and pity.

CHAPTER VI.—Continued

Copyright, 1909, by American-Journal-Examiner.

"YES, but I can't take Marie. She must remain in ignorance. She knows far too much of my affairs already."

"Well, I can't go with you. It would be madness. And you cannot go alone."

She was silent, her lips pressed together, her brows knit. Her countenance was hard and troubled, and there was a look of unmistakable terror in those wonderful eyes of hers.

"And if I act on your advice, Wilfrid, will you meet me in secret in New York tomorrow or the next day?"

"Certainly. I will do all I can to help you—only accept my advice and take Marie with you. Mislead her, just as you are misleading everyone."

"You will not think ill of me if I ask you something?" she said, seriously, looking very earnestly up into my face.

"Certainly not. You can be perfectly open and straightforward with me, surely."

"Then I want you to do something—although I'm almost afraid to ask you."

"And what's that?"

Startling Request

"I have no one else I can trust, Wilfrid, as I trust you. You are a man of honor, and I am an honest woman, even though my enemies have whispered their calumnies regarding me. You are my friend; if you were not I'd surely dare not ask you to help me in this," and her voice faltered as she averted her gaze. "I want you—I want you to pretend that you are my husband."

"Your husband!" I exclaimed, staring at her.

"Yes," she cried quickly, "to place myself in a position of safety I must first live in a crowded part of New York, where I can efface my identity; and, secondly, for appearance sake, as well as for another and much stronger motive, I must have a husband. Will you, Wilfrid, pretend to be mine?"

Her request utterly nonplussed me, and she noticed my hesitation.

"If you will only consent to go into hiding with me I can escape," she urged quickly. "You can easily contrive to live in Madison avenue, and pose as my husband in another part of New York; while I—well, I simply disappear. There will be a loud hue and cry after me, of course, but when I'm not found the family will simply put my disappearance down to my eccentricity. They will never connect us, for you will take good care to be seen in New York leading your usual life, and indeed seriously troubled over my disappearance. They will never suspect."

"But why must you appear to have a husband?" I asked, extremely puzzled.

"I have a reason—a strong one," she answered earnestly. "I have enemies, and my hand will be strengthened against them the instant they believe that I have married."

"That may be so," I said dubiously. "But where do you suggest taking up your abode?"

"The East Side would be a good quarter," she responded. "There is a large working-class population there. We could take furnished apartments with some quiet landlady. You are a compositor on one of the morning newspapers, and are out at work all night. Sometimes, too, you have to work overtime—I think they call it—and then you are away the greater part of the day also. I don't want you to tie yourself to me too much, you see," she added, smiling. "We shall give out that we have been married a year, and by your being a compositor your absence won't be remarked. So you see, you can live in Madison avenue just the same, and pay me a daily visit, just to cheer me up."

"But surely you could never bear life in a back street, Tibbie?" I said, looking at her, utterly bewildered at her suggestion. "You would have to wear print dresses, cook and clean up your rooms."

"And don't you think I know how to do that?" she asked. "Just see whether I can't act the workingman's wife if you will only help to save me from—from the awful fate that threatens me. Say you will, Wilfrid," she gasped, taking my hand again. "You will not desert me now, will you? Remember, you are the only friend I dare go to in my present trouble. You will not refuse to be known in some quiet district as my husband, will you?"

I was silent. Was any living man ever placed in dilemma more difficult? What could I reply? That she was in real deep earnest I saw from her white drawn countenance. The dark rings around her eyes told their own tale. She was desperate, and she declared that by acting as she suggested I could save her.

The dead, staring, clean-shaven countenance of that man in the wood arose before me, and I held my breath, my eyes fixed upon hers.

She saw that I hesitated to compromise her and implicate myself.

Then slowly she raised my hand to her lips and kissed it, saying, in a strange voice so low that I hardly caught the words:

"Wilfrid, I—I can tell you no more. My life is entirely in your hands. Save me, or—or I will kill myself! I dare not face the truth. Give me my life. Do whatever you will. Suspect me! hate me! spurn me as I deserve, but I crave mercy of you—I crave of you life—life!"

And, releasing me, she stood motionless, her hands clasped in supplication, her head bent, not daring to look me again in the face.

What could I think? What, reader, would you have thought? How would you have acted in such circumstances?

CHAPTER VII.

A Dangerous Game

WELL—I agreed.

Yes—I agreed to pose as the hard-working compositor upon a daily newspaper, and husband of Sibyl Burnet, the woman by whose hand the unknown man had fallen.

At first I hesitated, refusing to compromise her, yet she had fallen upon her knees, imploring me to help her, and I was bound to fulfil the promise I had so injudiciously made.

There was no love between us now, she had declared. The flame had flickered and died out long ago.

"If you will only consent to act as if I were your wife, then I may be able to save myself," she urged. "You will do so, will you not?"

"But why?" I had asked. "I cannot see how your pretended marriage can assist you."

"Leave it all to me," was her confident reply. "One day you will discern the reason."

Tearful Plea

And then, with tears in her beautiful eyes and kneeling at my feet, she begged again of me to act as she suggested and thus save her life.

So I consented. Yes—you may say that I was foolish, that I was injudicious, that I was still beneath the spell of her exquisite grace and matchless beauty. Perhaps I was; yet I tell you that at the moment so stunned was I by the tragedy, by what Eric had revealed, and by her midnight visit, that I hardly knew what I did.

"Very well, Sibyl," I said at last. "Let it be so. I will help you to escape, and I will act as if I were your husband. For your sake I will do this, although I tell you plainly that I see in it a grave and deadly peril."

"There is a far greater peril if I remain unmarried," she answered. "You recollect my questions this afternoon. I asked whether you would not really marry me. I asked because I feared that the blow might fall, and that I should have to seek protection."

"And the blow has fallen?" I asked.

"Yes," she answered in a low, desperate voice. "And were it not for you I should go to my room now and kill myself, Wilfrid! You, however, have promised to save me. There is no time to lose. I must get away at once. You will help me to get out the auto?"

"Of course. And you will take Marie? You must take her," I added.

"Why?"

"Because it is dangerous for her to remain here. She may raise the alarm," I said rather lamely. "Take my advice, and carry her with you to New Rochelle."

A Kiss of Gratitude

"Very well," she answered hurriedly, and raising my hand to her soft lips kissed it before I could prevent her, and said: "Wilfrid, let me thank you. You have given me back my life. An hour ago I was in my room and made preparations to bid adieu to everything. But I thought of you—my last and only chance of salvation. Ah! you do not know—no, no—I—I can never tell you! I can only give you the thanks of a desperate and grateful woman!"

And then she slipped out, promising to meet me there again with Marie in a quarter of an hour.

I crept back to my room, and when I had closed the door Eric stepped from his hiding place.

"She intends to fly," I explained. "She is going away in the auto, and I have persuaded her to take Marie."

"In the auto? At that hour?"

In brief I explained all that had taken place between us, and he listened to me in silence till the end.

"What?" he cried. "You are actually going to make people on the East Side believe it?"

"But isn't that a very dangerous bit of business?" he queried. "Suppose any of her people knew it. What would be said?"

I only shrugged my shoulders.

"Well," he remarked at last, "please yourself, old chap, but I can't see, either, how being married protects her in the way."

"Nor can I. Yet I've resolved to shield her and at the same time to try and solve the mysterious affair—therefore I'm bound to adopt her suggestions. She must go away at once, and we must get Marie out of the neighborhood—those two facts are plain. The motor will run down the driveway without any noise, so she'll be miles away when the household awake."

"Where's she going?"

I told him, and he agreed that my suggestion had been a good one.

Leaving him in my room, I crept again down the corridor, and presently both she and Marie came noiselessly along in the dark. My little friend had on a thick box-cloth motor coat with fur collar, a motor cap and her goggles hanging around her neck, while Marie, who often went in the car with her, had also a thick black coat, close cap and veil.

"I hope we shan't get a breakdown," Tibbie said with a laugh. "I really ought to take Webber with me," she added, referring to her smart chauffeur. "But how can I?"

"No," I said. "Drive yourself, and risk it. I know you can change a tire or mend a puncture as well as any man." Whereat she laughed.

"Very well," she said, "let us go," and we descended the wide oak stairs, Marie carrying the candle, which she afterward blew out.

A Night Flight

Upon my suggestion, we made our exit by that same window through which Eric and I had passed earlier in the night. Mistress and maid scrambled through, and I assisted them down upon the grass.

Then we slipped across to where the car was, opened the door, and after Sibyl had mounted into her place Marie and I pushed the automobile slowly out, while she steered it down the incline to the driveway.

She let it run twenty yards or so, and afterward put on the brake to allow her maid to mount beside her. Then, after I had tucked the rug around her, she gripped my hand tightly and meaningly, saying in a low voice:

"Thanks so much, Mr. Hughes. Good-by."

"Good-by," I whispered. "Bon voyage!"

And slowly the long, powerful car glided off almost noiselessly down the incline and was a moment later lost in the darkness.

I stood peering into the blackness, but in a few moments could hear no further sound. She had escaped, leaving me utterly mystified and wondering.

When, ten minutes later, I returned to Eric and described her silent departure, he said:

"So you are going to meet her in town—eh?"

"Yes, in secret, on Thursday night. She has made an appointment. She will leave Marie in New Rochelle and then simply disappear. By the time Marie returns here the dead man will be in his coffin, therefore she won't have any opportunity of identifying him."

"But there'll be a hue and cry after her. The police will think that something has happened to her."

"We descended the wide oak stairs, Marie carrying the candle."

Be Always Doing Something; Don't Waste Your Time

By Beatrice Fairfax

ARE you really living, or are you letting the precious days slip by with nothing in them of interest?

Remember that life is not long, and that this beautiful old world is full of wonderful, lovely things for those who take the trouble to look for them.

Not a day passes but what we have a chance to learn something if we keep our eyes open.

The dreamers must wake up, for, while they are building their air castles, life is hurrying by.

Youth is the time to learn—the mind is eager and plastic.

Keep your eyes and ears open. When you are travelling on the cars or in the subway don't go off into a day dream over the new hat you are going to buy; watch the people—they are far more interesting than the grandest clothes that parade Commonwealth avenue.

Whatever you do, don't stagnate. Try and learn something from every one you know.

You may work all day and be dead tired by nightfall, but try and do a little reading every day, even though you may only have ten minutes to devote to it.

Read the newspapers and such magazines as you can get hold of. The public libraries are free to all. Once you cultivate a fondness for good reading the most delightful world will open to you.

If you watch the papers you will see many good free lectures advertised where men and women of the greatest culture are to be found.

Cultivate a fad of some sort that at least will keep you wide awake and interested.

The more you know the more interesting you will be to others. It is not necessary to be pretty.

An intelligent face is better than one which has only prettiness to distinguish it.

Men are fond of declaring that girls can talk of nothing but beaux and clothes. That is not so, of course, and it is every girl's duty to be a living contradiction to that theory.

Show your men friends that you can listen and talk intelligently on the principal topics of the day.

It is not enough that you are young and pretty; you must be interesting as well.

Make up your mind to add to your store of knowledge every day. Remember that you can't call back one of these precious flying minutes, and don't waste a minute.

As it is, we spend more than a quarter of our lifetime in sleep, so you see we must spend the waking moments so as to get the greatest good out of them.

How Did You Solve the Servant Problem?

HOUSEKEEPERS, servant girls and employment agents continue to send in letters shedding a deal of light on the servant girl famine problem.

Have you solved the difficulty? Let us hear your solution. What has been your experience? Let's look at this vital question from all sides.

Address your letters to Editor Home Magazine, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street.

WHITE SLAVES?

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

I have worked for several families in Boston and have come to the conclusion that the great difficulty most housewives have with girls is their inability to teach them just how to do their work well without becoming angry over the mistakes that often arise.

They expect a young, ignorant girl from some other country to come here into their American home and be the machine from which they can grind any and all kinds of service at a moment's notice.

If she is bright and willing, with some girl friends to give her some good pointers, she gets on very well, otherwise she is just the drudge who tries to make the best of her hardship as long as it is possible.

These same housewives could not do half the work for 365 days as well as a good, bright girl does without being almost dead.

All in all, the general girl in many places is nothing but a white slave, and the quicker she can see a better chance ahead can you wonder she takes it? Try to remember that although your general girl is poor, she is still a woman. She needs to be considered, helped by kindness and taught by a gentle tongue.

When Boston housewives do this, girls will not be so wilful, hot tempered and unrefined. You can't be selfish and not transmit the spirit to her.

JANE BUTTS.

A FATAL MISTAKE

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

Too often, when hiring help, a woman, thinking that she has a jewel, will make the work light at first, thereby misrepresenting the amount there really is to be done. Yet if a girl, after having her duties increased 100 per cent., asks for more money than she at first received, she is treated with scorn and told if she doesn't like it to go somewhere else. When children are taught to be respectful and courteous to the help there will be far less trouble in keeping girls. A kindly "Thank you" or a word of praise occasionally lightens many a weary heart.

No. 886 Canterbury street, Roslindale.

DAD'S RYE BREAD

HERE is a recipe for the best bread made: One quart rye meal, two quarts white flour, tablespoon each of salt, sugar and lard, one yeast cake or one cup hop yeast, one quart lukewarm water. Mix harder than white bread and bake in slow oven one hour.

MRS. E. C. MARTIN.
R. F. D., South Braintree.

SALAD DRESSING

ONE egg, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon paprika, three tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons melted butter, two-thirds cup of vinegar. Cook in double boiler. Will keep for weeks.

MRS. J. C. PEABODY.
No. 51 Homestead street, Roxbury.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING.

ONE-HALF cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup milk, one cup flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one square chocolate, one tablespoon butter. Mix sugar and egg, then prepared flour and milk, lastly chocolate and butter, melted together. Steam two hours or longer. Serve with whipped cream or a sauce made with one egg, scant half cup sugar and a tablespoon hot milk. Beat well together. My friends think this is one of the nicest puddings they ever ate.

Are You Sweet or Sour in Manner?

EACH one of us in our daily life must be one of two things, either sweet or sour, and occasionally it is well for us to stop and ask ourselves to which class we belong.

The fret and hurry of hard work, the endeavor to keep up bravely when bearing a too heavy burden, the often unmerited harsh judgments of those dear to us—all combine perhaps at times to place us in the category of "sour," but no one should remain in that state for a long period.

To diffuse sweetness is particularly a woman's privilege. To knock off the blunt edges, to smooth down the rough corners, are little duties that a sweet nature takes as her particular charge. The few words of kindly peace and good fellowship, the knitting together the broken links in friendship or love, and, above all, the sinking of self into the serving of others, mark the "sweet" woman.

She never sees the evil, but seeks to find the redeeming trait which she is certain is in every person.

In her sweetness she can make excuses for failures, for unkind words, for undone deeds, until those who had nothing good to say, feel humbled and ashamed of their unkind remarks. Do you know a "sweet" woman? Are you such a one, or do you belong to the "sour" variety?

The woman who is never satisfied with her lot in life, who ever hankers after another's clothes, friends, home, money, missing in the meantime all her own blessings, belongs to the "sour" type of woman, and she is as depressing to meet and converse with as a chilling northeast wind.

No matter how bright the day started, once the "sour" woman is met the sky changes; we instinctively shiver and feel despondent.

Such is her influence upon us. She sees a hidden motive in every kind action or genial word. "They want something out of you," she remarks sourly. "People don't do anything for nothing," and as we listen our hearts feel sad.

Is the world indeed composed of individuals who always require payment for even a smile? If it is your misfortune to know a "sour" woman, shun her as you would an infectious disease, for her sourness will endeavor to penetrate into the sweetest nature and sow poisonous seeds everywhere.

Red Nose and Red Veins

The Cause and Cure of These Humiliating Facial Troubles.

THESE afflictions are not always an indication of drink. Digestive troubles will cause a red nose more quickly than alcohol. We examine every case thoroughly and administer treatment to remove the cause. The redness then quickly disappears. In the most severe cases, when the nose and face are filled with small red veins, our scientific treatments are used with unfailing success. This work is all done under the personal direction of specialists who have made this trouble a particular study.

Write to-day for question blank and full information; or, better still, call and talk with one of our specialists. Consultation free.

VANITY

From time immemorial moralists have railed at the vanity of woman. Here is a woman, and a beautiful one at that, who says that vanity is an imperishable instinct; that vanity, like love, is one of the great forces that makes the world go round; that to be vain is a duty to humanity and an essential of success.

It's an original view; what is your opinion? This defense of an old time sin is set forth in our new magazine—

UNITED MILFORD LABOR SCORES EBEN S. DRAPER

Central Union in Town Next to Hope(less)dale Brands Him Foe to Workers.

CHEER MORAN AND BROWN

Labor organizations in all parts of the State continue to take action condemning Lieutenant-Governor Eben S. Draper for his antagonism to organized labor and indorsing John B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown. The latest to act are:

Milford Central Labor Union.
Brockton Teamsters' Union.
Brockton Painters' Union.
Brockton Stationary Engineers' Union.
Brockton Dressers and Packers' Union.
Brockton Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.
Boston Roofers' Union.
Car and Locomotive Painters' Union.
Boston Metal Polishers' Union and Brass Workers' Union.

Milford Central Labor Union.

The Milford Central Labor Union has adopted resolutions condemning Draper as the worse foe of organized labor in Massachusetts. Milford is an adjoining town of Hopedale, and the oppressive arm of the Drapers, it is claimed, has been extended there with serious results to organized labor.

The resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, follow:

"Resolved, That we, the delegates of the Milford Central Labor Union, do hereby condemn the candidacy of Eben S. Draper of Hopedale for Lieutenant-Governor, and most heartily indorse the candidacy of E. Gerry Brown for the same position.

"Whereas, Eben S. Draper is and has proved himself the worst foe to organized labor in Massachusetts, and by trickery and oppression disrupted the Moulders' and Machinists' Unions, and the Draper Company, of which he is an honored member, is affiliated with the Parry-Post combine, which uses the spotter system to learn the doings of union meetings, therefore, be it further

"Resolved, That we use every honorable means in our power to defeat him at the polls; and be it further

"Resolved, That we combine our united effort with organized labor of this State to bring about the election of E. Gerry Brown of Brockton, whom we know to be an honest, sincere friend of labor, a man who has for years helped to fight the battles of union men against oppression; and be it again further

"Resolved, That we heartily indorse the candidacy of John B. Moran for Governor and pledge ourselves to give him our hearty support."

SURRENDERED AFTER 5 SHOTS

Special to the Boston American.

CHARLESTOWN, N. H., Oct. 26.—A man giving the name of Harry McDale, who is charged by the police with being the man who has burglarized a number of Vermont hardware stores within the past few days, was arrested yesterday on the road between Charlestown and Claremont and taken to Vermont, where he was bound over to the December term of court and lodged in Windsor jail. He was wheeling a barrow loaded with $600 worth of machinists' tools when discovered and only surrendered after Sheriff Davidson had fired five shots.

WOMEN CARRY GUNS IN FEAR OF THUGS

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 26.—Because of the attack on Mrs. Maud Coburn, who was knocked down and robbed of $20 on Lakeview avenue Friday evening, the women of that section now carry revolvers when they go out alone at night.

TRAIN HITS COACH; 3 DEAD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A Long Island railroad train struck a coach returning from a funeral yesterday at Woodside, L. I., killing three and injuring three more.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is not really a sickness, but a symptom. It is a symptom that a certain set of nerves is ailing. Not the voluntary nerves that enable you to walk and talk and act—but the AUTOMATIC STOMACH NERVES over which your mind has no control.

I have not room here to explain how these tender, tiny nerves control and operate the stomach. How worry breaks them down and causes indigestion. How misuse wears them out and causes dyspepsia. How neglect may bring on kidney, heart, and other troubles through sympathy. I have not room to explain how these nerves may be reached and strengthened and vitalized and made stronger by a remedy I spent years in perfecting—now known by physicians and Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. (Tablets or Liquid.) I have not room to explain how this remedy, by removing the cause usually puts a certain end to indigestion, belching, heartburn, insomnia, nervousness, dyspepsia. All of these things are fully explained in the book I will send you free when you write. Do not fail to send for the book. It tells how the solar plexus governs digestion and a hundred other things every one ought to know—for all of us, at some time or other have indigestion. With the book I will send free my "Health Token"—an intended passport to good health.

For the free book and the "Health Token" you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 2808 Racine, Wis. State which book you want.	Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

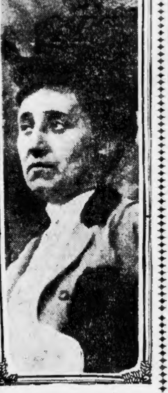
Dr. Shoop's Restorative Tablets—give full three weeks' treatment. Each form—liquid or tablet—has equal merit. Druggists everywhere.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

ONE MONTH FREE

The Osmo-Chemic Physicians, 15 Boylston st., will examine you carefully with their big "X-Ray" free of charge. If you begin a course of treatment before Nov. 1, they will furnish you with one month's treatment, including all medicines, absolutely free of charge.

SHOPPING YESTERDAY? IS THIS YOUR PICTURE?



The Original of This Photograph Will Receive a Prize of $2.

If It Is, a Reward of $2 Is Yours When You Identify the Little Snapshot.

WHOSE photograph is this? It is a little snapshot of a busy woman shopper taken yesterday in the retail shopping district. A reward of $2 awaits the original and the money is hers when she identifies the photo.

The snapshot printed Tuesday was identified yesterday by Miss May Walsh of Shirley avenue, Revere Beach. The Camera Man snapped her Monday in the height of the busy Monday shopping rush, in front of Houghton & Dutton's.

When the Camera Man gets YOU, call at the BOSTON AMERICAN office and get the reward. It's just like finding money.

12,000 MEN IN RUSSIAN STRIKE

ODESSA, Russia, Oct. 26.—The strike at the town of Briansk is in the hands of the revolutionists to-day and the black flag is floating from many buildings.

Twelve thousand men are on strike at the Ekaterinoslav railway shops. The big buildings are closed and the black flag floats over them as well as over the homes of most of the strikers.

The men say they will not work and will keep the works closed until they secure more political freedom and higher wages. If any effort is made to reopen the works it will be the signal for a terrible riot. The men are well armed.

Grandfather's Cure for Constipation

GREAT medicine,—the Sawbuck. Two hours a day sawing wood will keep anyone's Bowels regular.

No need of pills, Cathartics, Castor Oil, nor "Physic," if you'll only work the Sawbuck regularly.

* * *

Exercise is Nature's Cure for Constipation and,—a Ten-Mile walk will do, if you haven't got a wood-pile.

But, if you will take your Exercise in an Easy Chair, there's only one way to do that, because,—there's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowels and its name is "CASCARETS."

Cascarets are the only means to exercise the Bowel Muscles without work.

* * *

They don't Purge, Gripe, nor "upset your Stomach," because they don't act like "Physics."

They don't flush out your Bowels and Intestines with a costly waste of Digestive Juice, as Salts, Castor Oil, Calomel, Jalap, or Aperient Waters always do.

No—Cascarets strengthen and stimulate the Bowel Muscles, that line the Food passages and that tighten up when food touches them, thus driving the food to its finish.

A Cascaret acts on your Bowel Muscles as if you had just sawed a cord of wood, or walked ten miles.

Cascarets move the Food Naturally, digesting it without waste of tomorrow's Gastric Juice.

* * *

The thin, flat, Ten-Cent Box is made to fit your Vest pocket, or "My Lady's" Purse. Druggists—10 Cents a Box.

Carry it constantly with you and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need one.

Be very careful to get the genuine made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." 738

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

The Independence League pledges itself not to solicit or accept contributions from any monopoly, any corporation or any individual known to be profiting by political favors

The Independence League is now engaged in a political battle for the benefit of the people. In order to carry this warfare to a successful conclusion, so that the people may reap the reward, money is absolutely essential for the payment of the legitimate expenses of the campaign, such as printing, the hiring of halls, etc.

WE THEREFORE APPEAL TO ALL PATRIOTIC CITIZENS FOR SUCH FINANCIAL AID AS THEY MAY BE ABLE TO RENDER WITHIN THEIR MEANS.

We wish to impress those in sympathy with the Independence League and its objects that no one need feel any embarrassment in contributing a small amount. INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.

PIANOS AND ORGANS.

ROXBURY STORAGE SALESROOMS

Pianos at Prices Less Than Wholesale

Every week we receive dozens of Pianos from dealers whose means of credit position for business reasons, who want cash quickly, and they know they can get it by sending their Piano to our Sacrifice Storage Salesrooms, where the price tag is put on them, and they go at a song. We put them on the floor with the other Storage Salesrooms Pianos. They are always marked higher nor lower than they are expected. Sometimes a Piano with an exquisite case, hand-carved with the skill of an artist, goes for a price that is really an insult to its artistic worth. Our Storage Salesroom sacrifice tag tells nothing of art—it tells only the cold fact that the Piano must be sold—sold quickly, and, of course, at a price that carries no sale to the buyer. If you want a Piano bargain see what the Roxbury Storage Salesrooms' sacrifice tag can do for you.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, OCTOBER 26, 1906.

Lincoln's Message to Labor

Its Power Will Be Emphasized in the Great Mass Meeting at Tremont Temple To-morrow Night

"The strongest bond of human sympathy, outside of the family relations, should be one uniting ALL working people, of all nations, and tongues and kindred."

That is a very short extract from the admirable reply which Abraham Lincoln sent to a committee from the Workingmen's Association of New York in March, 1864.

Lincoln spoke then as the SUCCESSFUL man. He spoke as President of the United States, as a man who had proved himself a great soldier and, what is ten thousand times more valuable, a patient, modest, honest, loyal, public servant.

This message of Lincoln's to the workingmen should never be forgotten by them.

And we believe that reverence for it is shown in the great meeting that has been organized by the Independence League for to-morrow night at Tremont Temple.

The readers of this newspaper are invited to attend that meeting. There will be speakers of ability, representing the effort in this present campaign to restore government to human beings and take it away from organized money.

The doors of the temple will be open to ticket holders to-morrow night at 7 o'clock and to all others at 7:45. There will be hundreds of seats available without tickets. Every effort will be made to give every person a seat.

In order to accommodate the crowd, Lorimer Hall has been engaged, and in case there are not seats enough in the large auditorium this smaller hall, which seats one thousand persons, will be thrown open and all of the prominent speakers will appear at both meetings.

Among the speakers will be John B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown, candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor on the ticket of the people.

We hope that as many as possible of our readers will attend this meeting.

WOMEN ESPECIALLY SHOULD GO. THEY ARE VITALLY INTERESTED IN A GOVERNMENT WHICH USES ITS POWER TO TAX EACH YEAR MORE AND MORE THE EARNINGS OF THE HUSBAND AND THE SUM THAT CAN BE SPENT IN THE HOME. The first balcony will be reserved for the women and their escorts.

This will probably be the last great meeting of this campaign. We hope that our readers will make it memorable, both in numbers and in enthusiasm.

Workingmen should indeed stand together shoulder to shoulder, as Lincoln tells them.

They will take his advice and stand together on Election Day, less than two weeks away.

A Man Who Is Needed on Beacon Hill

Backed by a splendid record of public service in Congress and in both branches of the Massachusetts Legislature, Hon Michael J. McEttrick of Ward 17 is again a candidate for the House. Supported by voters of that district who believe it is for the best interests of the ward and the honor of themselves to be represented by an honest man, he confidently expects re-election.

Mr. McEttrick is certainly a unique figure in public life. He has devoted the best part of the last twenty-one years to the service of the people in a law-making capacity.

Without money, opposed by grasping corporations, fought by self-seeking, unscrupulous machine politicians, he has never been defeated as a candidate before the people.

No opponent has ever been so vicious as to charge him with having been untrue to a public trust. Lying insinuations have been used against him in a sneaking manner, but they have never influenced the voters who know him and appreciate his record.

This year he is the regular Democratic candidate for the Legislature in his ward and is endorsed by the Independence League and Wage Earners' Club of the ward. The notorious Curleys, in their attempt to prevent him from returning to the Legislature, are supporting a dummy candidate, William J. Murphy, ex-Councilman, on nomination papers.

The people of the district should understand that it is for their benefit and not for the benefit of the Curleys that Mr. McEttrick should go back to the State House.

Mr. McEttrick is a power for good on Beacon Hill. He not only votes right on questions affecting the interests of the people and organized labor but never fails to speak forcefully and eloquently in behalf of them.

His reputation is not confined to the city of Boston, nor to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, but he is a national character, his services in Congress having won for him country-wide distinction.

Because he is honest, because he is faithful to the best interests of the people, because he is able and because his record proves that he is valuable, he should be re-elected to the Legislature of 1907, which will have need of men of the stamp of Mr. McEttrick.

And, more than all, he should be re-elected to show the decent people of the Commonwealth that Ward 17 is not controlled by the Curley machine.

She Describes Various Human Leeches That Live on the Bounty of Relatives and Friends

By Dorothy Dix

DOROTHY DIX

ONE of the most difficult problems in life is how to treat the human parasite.

Other propositions we can settle on the basis of doing our duty if we are of heroic mold, or doing as we please if we are not, but when we come to the question of dealing with the individual who calmly and deliberately and unshakably fastens himself or herself upon us to be supported, we seem to reach a situation where we are powerless to settle the matter upon either an ethical or a comfortable basis.

On one side are ties of blood, family, affection, friendship; on the other our outraged sense of justice and fair play. We want to do what is kind and generous, but we don't want to be worked.

And practically the whole world may be divided into those who sponge and those who are sponged upon. Almost every one of us who has had enough grit and industry to achieve a roof and a crust of bread has somebody living upon him—some vampire that feeds upon him and sucks him dry financially.

Sometimes the parasite is a son who settles down on the old mother and robs her of the comforts that she ought to have in age. He calls his disinclination to work nerves, or dyspepsia, or an artistic temperament, or being misunderstood, but everybody else knows it for laziness.

His mother talks about her poor boy being so delicate, or the brutality of employers, and yields up her little income to supply him with money for beer and tobacco.

Various Vampires

SHE may, if she is an extraordinarily strong-minded woman, grieve that he doesn't go to work and display more energy, but she makes him welcome to loaf on her.

Sometimes the vampires are a bunch of sisters, who fasten themselves upon a poor, hard-worked brother, and take all the youth and joy out of life and opportunities of happiness out of existence for him. They are great big, healthy, strapping girls, with plenty of intelligence, and are just as able in every way in the world to make a living as he is.

Only they won't.

They are too lazy. They are too proud. They can play golf all day, but they can't stand behind a counter.

They can do settlement work, but they can't teach. They can perform on the piano, but they can't pound a typewriter.

They think it nicer to do things for fun than for money, and easier to let somebody else support them than to support themselves.

Sometimes the human leech is merely a friend without the shadow of a claim upon the unfortunate creatures upon whom it elects to live.

It goes and settles down for interminable and unsolicited visits upon its victim if it is a female. If it is a male it regularly holds up its acquaintances for loans that are never repaid, and hangs around for free lunches, free drinks and cigars.

It Isn't Fair

THE question is, what are we going to do about it? What is the right thing to do about it?

Does our duty to our family demand that we should slave to feed and house and clothe those who are just as able to work as we are, but who will not do it?

Is it right that we should sacrifice ourselves to the brutal selfishness of those who have no pity for the hardships they inflict upon us?

No. A thousand times no, and it is nothing but weakness in us that makes us do it. We simply lack the nerve to refuse to be held up and robbed in the name of family and friendship.

The mother who supports an able-bodied son who ought to work, and won't work, is putting a premium upon his laziness.

If she would shut her door in his face she would find out that about the time he got good and hungry he would begin to hunt for a job.

The same rule would work with the no-account husbands who are supported by wives.

Have More Backbone

A BROTHER owes no obligation to support a sister who is of sound mind and body, and he ought to tell her so.

Many men are kept from marrying and having homes and families and the natural joys of life because they are burdened down with the care of female relatives. This is a wrong, instead of a blessing, to the women.

Every woman who hasn't a husband needs a career to fill in her time and to keep her from becoming a nuisance to the community, and so the man who sacrifices himself to save a leech sister from turning into a self-respecting, independent, some-account grub, so to speak, does harm instead of good.

As for the friends who give us the privilege of supporting them, they deserve to be thrown out of doors and made to take care of themselves. It is our duty to hunt them up a job, and then let them shift for themselves.

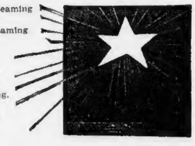
It doesn't do anybody any harm to have a hard time, and it is better for either a man or a woman to subsist on bread and water that they have earned themselves than it is to fare on the champagne and turtle of charity.

We have the best of authority for dealing with the human parasite with vigor and without gloves—"unless a man works, he shall not eat"—but few of us have got the backbone to do what we know to be right and refuse to be held up by those who are just as able to support themselves as we are to support them.

Hence the vampire flourishes and adorns every household.

EVENING STAR

BY HARRY B. METCALF



EVENING STAR, thou jewel gleaming
In the rose-pearl west,
E'en at dusk thine eye is beaming
On the river's breast.
Many who have known but sorrow
In the ebbing day,
Catch a hope-gleam for the morrow
In thy kindly ray;
And with glooms of night descending,
Brightening afar,
Pledge of God's blest care unending
Thou art, Evening Star!

A Little Novel of the Cruel Sea

By Wex Jones

"AHOY, there, ye lubber!"

The wild call rang out from the deck of the canal barge Pokipsie Kate, as, towed by its faithful mules, it breasted the foaming billows of the mid-Atlantic in September.

Cap Vanderdecken was a worthy descendant of his great-great-grandfather, the Flying Dutchman. With a cargo of brick which had taken fire from spontaneous combustion, Cap Vanderdecken swore to sail until the blaze was extinguished, if it took him to Cape Town.

His wife and daughter entreated him to stop at New York, but he held to his vow, and soon the faithful mules, Pete and Repeat, were beyond their depth and swimming doggedly in the direction of the English Channel.

From the volume of smoke which arose from the Pokipsie Kate, she was frequently mistaken for a liner, and in her great race with the Hitancania she was reported as the Kaiser Wilhelm der Extra Grosse.

But what could the Pokipsie Kate, with her two-mule power, do against the Kunlarder with 30,000 horsepower?

Slowly but surely she was distanced, and luckily, being unequipped with wireless apparatus, could not understand the insulting Macaronidams from the victor.

Suddenly Pete was seen to kick. Miss Vanderdecken, who was on watch forward, reported to the captain that the port engine was bucking, and when the Cap came forward to ascertain the cause, his quick eye detected a man floating alongside the Kate.

"Haul him in," said he, and presently the young man was hauled aboard, almost as wet as if he had been caught in a Jersey shower.

"I was shoved overboard from the Hitancania while trying to catch a flying fish in my hand," said the young man. "I have $50,000,000 in my cabin, and my enemies knew of it."

"Oh, pop, we must overtake the ship," said Miss Vanderdecken. "He's such a nice young man," she added in a whisper.

The mules were worked under a full head of steam, but couldn't overtake the Hitancania. The young man didn't appear very sorry, and was soon engaged to the Cap's daughter.

Then he confessed that there had been no millions in the Hitancania, but he gave the captain a plan to make money.

The burning bricks had naturally become fire brick, and this they sold at an enormous price in London, where Pete and Repeat drew the bridal coach through streets of cheering people, who took it for part of the Lord Mayor's show.

Such madness, as for fear of death to die,
Is to be poor for fear of poverty.
SIR JOHN DENHAM.
